Germans Release British Writer, Who Will Leave Country

Munich Dispatch Says Predictions Noel Panter of London Would Be Freed Without Trial Come True

Brother With Him In German City

Canadian Press and Associated Press

Munich, Bavaria, Nov. 1.—Noel Panter, British newspaper man accused of incorrectly reporting a speech made by Chancellor Hitler, will be released from jail and expelled it was officially stated to-night.

A statement said the states attorney in the department of Leipzig, after mature consideration, had found no cause for further prosecution of Panter, but regarded "a continuance of his sojourn in Germany undesirable."

The date of his release and expulsion was not given.

PROSECUTOR STUDIES CASE

Berlin, Nov. 1.—The Reich prosecutor, Friedrich Werner, spent last night studying the case of Noel Panter, correspondent of The London Daily Express, under arrest in Munich. A decision was expected soon, it was stated.

An earlier Munich dispatch than that above to-day said:

Munich, Bavaria, Nov. 1.—The opinion Noel Panter, British newspaperman, accused of misrepresenting a speech made by Chancellor Hitler, will be released from jail without a trial was expressed by the prisoner's brother, Dr. Panter.

The statement was made after Dr. Panter had consulted with Bavarian authorities. He said he was so confident he had decided to remain in Munich in the hope of accompanying his brother to England.

DOLLAR AT 99

New York, Nov. 1.—The Canadian dollar reached the 99-cent mark in relation to United States funds on the foreign exchange markets here to-day. This is the highest figure attained by Dominion funds in more than a year.

The dollar opened unchanged at 98⅞ cents, and improved steadily thereafter to the close. The United States premium against Canadian money dropped to 1.01 per cent.

The pound sterling and the French gold franc, as well as other European continental gold currencies, were also strong against the United States dollar. Sterling closed up three cents at $4.80, while francs registered an advance of 9¼ points by finishing the session at 6.01¼ cents.

Winooka Captures Pimlico Feature

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 1.—Winooka, Australian sprint champion, won his first race on the eastern turf to-day, scoring a close decision over Sheldon H. Fairbanks' Gold Step and Preston M. Burch's Tambour in the six furlongs of the $2,500 Baltimore handicap at the opening of the meeting at the Pimlico track.

U.S. TO-MORROW TO BUY GOLD

Government Expected to Begin Operations in Foreign Field; Price Raised To-day

Washington, Nov. 1.—Intention of the United States government to start foreign gold purchase to-day was blocked by closing of banks in France in observance of All Saints' Day. This became known to-day in official quarters, which assumed the gold operations would begin to-morrow in foreign markets.

PRICE PUT UP

The United States Treasury to-day announced a price of $32.26 an ounce for Reconstruction Corporation purchases of newly-mined gold. This was an advance of 14 cents compared with yesterday, and another new high.

Meanwhile the dollar value of gold at London increased from $31.05 to $31.52 an ounce, a margin of 47 cents. To-day's domestic price was 74 cents above the world figure.

The advance in the latter included an increase in the actual quotation for gold in sterling and an increase also in the number of dollars and cents to the pound.

The $31.52 figure being paid in London was on the basis of the pound opening there at a rate of $4.78½.

This was a depreciation for the dollar since yesterday of 2⅝ cents. Later the dollar eased to $4.79½.

CORPORATION ACTS

At the White House it was stated the gold purchase programme was now entirely in the hands of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It was said the President was not negotiating with the Bank of England or the Bank of France.

The job of establishing the gold buying machinery has been left by the President in the hands of Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Eugene Black, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and George Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

NEW ECONOMY IN POSTOFFICES

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—For reasons of economy, no appointments will be made by the government to fill postmasterships in cities where district superintendents are located, it has been learned here. The functions of district superintendent and postmaster will be combined, the former performing the duties.

Vacancies exist at present in Toronto, Winnipeg and Moose Jaw, but the government does not intend to fill them. The postmasters' duties will be undertaken by the district superintendents concerned.

ROOSEVELT JOINS IN DEBT TALK

Associated Press

Washington, Nov. 1.—The British war debt negotiations reached a point to-day where President Roosevelt received the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, and the head of the debt mission, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross.

The British statesmen went into conference with the President late in the afternoon. Two weeks of discussions between Sir Frederick and the Treasury department have proved futile in reaching an understanding for revision of the debt.

Prior to the conference to-day Mr. Roosevelt made it known he was unaware of the war debt's status in so far as particulars were concerned. He indicated, however, he was ready to hear what the British had to offer.

BIG GASOLINE TANK BLOWS UP

Associated Press

Tiverton, R.I., Nov. 1.—A 30,000-gallon tank partly filled with gasoline blew up shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon at the New England terminal plant with a shock that rocked the city. A tank had collapsed earlier in the day and killed three men and injured several others.

Ottawa Explains Its Note Was Not Intended to Be Sent to Moscow

But British Board of Trade Not Accused of Breach of Faith

Canadian Press

London, Nov. 1.—While the Canadian authorities objected strongly to the dispatch of their memorandum on timber imports to Moscow, the Canadian government had no objection to the British [illegible] Trade showing the Canadian case to those who represented the Russian interests in London, says a statement issued at Canada House here to-day. The statement added there was no suggestion of bad faith on the part of the Board of Trade.

The Canada House statement follows:

"The Canadian government had no objection to the Board of Trade showing the Canadian case if they so desired, to those who represented the Russian interests in London, but the Canadian authorities objected strongly to the documents being dispatched to Moscow. Not only did they regard such procedure as superfluous, in view of the fact there were Soviet and timber trade experts in London who knew the position intimately, but they argued it would involve a delay which would be particularly unfortunate at the present time when movements are being placed for the coming year and commitments might be made which would seriously retard the expansion of Canadian timber trade in Great Britain."

There will be a further meeting of the British and Russian officials, possibly later this week.

Returns From Mainland Confident of Victory at Polls To-morrow

Victoria Will Look on as Six of Ten Island Members Are Named

Victoria will look on in the role of spectator to-morrow while the rest of Vancouver Island and British Columbia, with the exception of Vancouver Centre, will vote in the most remarkable election in the history of British Columbia. When polls open at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning electors in thirty-seven constituencies will start to make their selection of forty-one members for the next British Columbia Legislature.

The other six members, four for Victoria and two for Vancouver Centre, will be elected November 27, a little over three weeks later, at the delayed poll made necessary through the death since nomination day of W. J. Bowser, K.C., who was a candidate in both constituencies.

CONFIDENT OF RESULTS

T. D. Pattullo, leader of the Liberal Party, returned to Victoria this morning, having completed a tour of the mainland portion of the province.

Mr. Pattullo expressed himself as confident of the results. Asked with special reference to the situation on Vancouver Island, Mr. Pattullo said:

"To-morrow two ministers occupying important positions, namely, the Premier and the Attorney-General, are submitting themselves for justification at the hands of the electorate. These ministers have very special responsibility as to the course which has been pursued by the administration during the last five years. It is hard to conceive that the electors will place the mark of approval upon their administration.

"On the other hand, the Liberal Party has most excellent candidates in the field. In Nanaimo, George Pearson, who made such a splendid record in the House and who established a province-wide reputation; in Comox, Arnold Hanna, also a member of the last House who distinguished himself in his knowledge of the important questions of fisheries and education, and in Esquimalt, C. E. Whitney-Griffiths, whose many years of service, particularly in agricultural matters, have marked him as a man of outstanding ability. Running against Premier Tolmie and other candidates is Norman Whittaker. An outstanding barrister and solicitor, he has been a student of public questions for many years. His intimate knowledge of the constituency of Saanich, where he has resided for so long, and his pertinacious energy, will assure Saanich of the highest type of representativ. In The Islands constituency, the Liberal candidate is Alex. McDonald, who has lived in the constituency all of his life, is one of its most upstanding citizens, and is a man of exceptionally sound common sense. In Cowichan-Newcastle, David Ramsay, a great Liberal thinker, is running. In all the two hundred odd candidates running, there is no man of broader Liberal thought than David Ramsay. The people of Cowichan-Newcastle would honor themselves by electing him.

"Vancouver Island would be fortunate in being represented by a so splendid body of men."

Textbooks Teach Youth of Germany Military Science

Nothing Extraordinary Or Criminal About War, Writes Professor Who Holds Chair of Military Science in High School

Necessary and Inevitable He Says in Teaching Children in Remilitarization of the Nation

By M. H. HALTON
Copyright 1933.

Berlin, Nov. 1.—As the sands run low in the hour-glass of the Disarmament Conference in this most critical autumn since the war—with France refusing to give way, and Germany withdrawing from the League of Nations, the one being afraid and the other resurgent—I am seeing here before my eyes, what even the most casual tourist could see: a nation being remilitarized.

More important than the roll of drums and the marching of troops which are to be heard and seen everywhere every day; more important than the millions of huge flags that fly from the windows; and more important than any possible measure of rearmament, are the military and warlike ideas which will from now on, and are now, deliberately being taught to the youth of Germany.

In Brown House waiting rooms here and in Munich I have watched till my soul and stomach revolted the pompous and ridiculous and innumerable jumpings to attention and ferocious salutes; in newly-assembled war museums I have watched hundreds of boys with shining eyes listen to fierce lectures on Germany's victories against a world in arms. But the first manifestations are only the psychological results of inferiority complexes; and as for the second, the eyes of boys will always shine at stories of heroic deeds.

MANKINDS' MADNESS

But it was not till to-day, when I read one of the new books which German children are to be taught—fifteen years after the abyss of horror which was the last war—that I realized most fully that in very truth mankind is mad.

The book is "Wehrwissenschaft" (Military Science). It is written by Prof. Ewald Banse, who has just been appointed to the chair of military science in the Brunswick Technical High School. Incidentally, the German press has been instructed not to record such appointments: they look bad to a watching world. In the same way it is high treason for any German to describe the government's military preparations.

Three Hundred Electors Hear Cowichan-Newcastle Candidate at Ladysmith

Brilliant Analysis of Provincial Liberalism Given By George S. Pearson

By The Victoria Times Special Representative

Ladysmith, Nov. 1.—Before an audience of 300 people in the Rialto Theatre here last evening the Liberal candidate for Cowichan-Newcastle, David Ramsay, introduced his claims to the local electors. Mr. Ramsay said while he was an unknown quantity to many people in the Cowichan-Newcastle district he was very well acquainted with others, and he was quite ready if given the necessary encouragement to develop that acquaintance into a general friendship during future years.

The candidate said he was well aware of the special problems of the constituency, and said the qualifications of a member of the Legislature should fall into two categories. He should be able to devote an intelligent interest to the needs of his constituency and be in a position to partici-

OKLAHOMA OIL WELL BLAZES

Unexplained Explosion Starts Fire and 2,500 Barrels of Oil Burned

Associated Press

Oklahoma City, Nov. 1.—An explosion set fire to a 10,000-barrel oil well, the Russell Petroleum Company's No. 1 Reno, eleven blocks from Oklahoma City's business district, to-day. The blast, of undetermined origin, tore out the well's connections, loosing a roaring column of oil and gas that shot high into the air and ignited.

No one was injured.

The flames quickly melted the steel derrick and consumed 2,500 barrels of oil in four storage tanks.

High Calibre of Liberal Candidate Lauded By Many Speakers at Rally

"You people of the riding of Esquimalt have on November 2 not only the opportunity to make a change, but you have the opportunity to put out the old reactionary spirit and get in line with the new spirit of Liberalism that is sweeping the whole of Canada," said Allan Chambers at the final election campaign meeting yesterday evening at the Rex Theatre, held in the interests of C. E. Whitney-Griffiths, Liberal candidate in Esquimalt.

"In the outlying districts of the large Esquimalt riding, Mr. Whitney-Griffiths will draw 75 per cent of the vote, and the extent of his majority will depend only upon the extent to which the residents of Esquimalt township turn out to support him," said W. A. Walker, who presided as chairman.

"The people realize now that a very serious situation is facing any government taking over across the Bay," said Mr. Whitney-Griffiths. He spoke only

Liberals Offering Electors To-morrow "New Deal" For B.C.

Recovery Plans of Party's Platform Stressed in Final Campaign Meeting at Sidney; Victoria Candidates Appear

Huge Refunding Plan to Cut Interest Rates on Sound Basis With Federal Backing Outlined By John Hart

The solid planks of the Liberal platform aimed at a "new deal" for British Columbians toward economic and social recovery were clearly outlined to a Sidney audience yesterday evening by John Hart and Byron Johnson, speaking in support of Alex. McDonald, the Liberal candidate in The Islands riding.

W. T. Straith, Major Gus Boyer and Mr. McDonald also spoke, and were given an attentive hearing in Stacey's Hall.

Work for the unemployed, based upon a fuller understanding between the federal and provincial governments, and designed to provide decent wages, was the theme which Mr. Johnson handled in convincing fashion. He described how this had been done in other countries to tide over until the laws of supply and demand adjusted themselves to remedy conditions.

REFUNDING PLAN

Mr. Hart dealt with the financial and economic side, delineating the Liberal proposal for a refunding loan, to be arranged through the federal government, which would enable the province to save close to $5,000,000 in its debt charges and clear the way for a balanced budget with sufficient provision for normal, necessary expenditures.

AUSTRIA GOING ANTI-SEMITIC

Vienna, Nov. 1.—Persistent rumors the government of Chancellor Dollfuss is soon to steer a definitely Anti-Semitic course took on a more concrete form to-day.

An editorial in the semi-official Reichpost sharply pointed out the Nazis must not be credited with the invention of Anti-Semitism, which in no way clashed with "the warmest Austrian patriotism."

"The Austrian government," said the editorial, "is fighting National Socialism because it is imperialistic, not because it is anti-Jewish."

DUKE OF ATHOLL IN POLICE COURT

He Is Called Before London Magistrate on Lotteries Act Charge to Explain His "Mystery Fund" and Prizes

Canadian Press and Associated Press

London, Nov. 1.—A summons was granted to-day in the Bow Street Police Court against the Duke of Atholl for violation of the Lotteries Act. The summons created a sensation in England.

The duke raised his own private "mystery fund" of more than £150,000 by voluntary subscriptions and then distributed 748 gifts ranging from £2,000 to £10. He set aside £60,000 for charities and distributed £36,000 among the subscribers, who bought tickets after the manner of the Irish Sweepstakes.

The lucky subscribers to the duke's fund were announced, October 21. Afterward men from Scotland Yard held a conference with the duke at his Scottish seat. That was followed by to-day's summons, which was applied for by the director of public prosecutions.

The case will be heard in the Bow Street court November 14.

Bulgarian Defendant Shut Out of Reichstag Fire Case For "Unspeakable Insolence"

Associated Press

Berlin, Nov. 1. — Georgi Dimitroff, Bulgarian defendant, was excluded again to-day from the German Reichstag building fire trial because of what the court termed "unspeakably insolent" comment on procedure. The Bulgarian is one of five men charged with setting fire to the structure last February.

"The circle of testimony against the Communist defendants," Dimitroff boldly asserted in court, "is now complete. It started with the Nazi Reichstagers, was continued by Nazi journalists and is now finished by a thief."

Judge Buenger said in court today: "I only heard the beginning of his words yesterday, but they were unspeakably insolent."

Protesting volubly, Dimitroff was led off by police.

Then Proceed About Business of Straightening Out Hallowe'en Pranks

Youngsters Have the Most Fun, Going From Door to Door in Fancy Costume

The charge office at police headquarters to-day was akin to a barter and exchange shop as the Hallowe'en cleanup got under way and gates were returned to their owners, signs put back in their proper places and the results of other mischievous pranks counteracted.

Taking things by and large, the police officials generally agreed it was a fairly quiet Hallowe'en. However, there were a number of reports of broken fences and steps will be taken against the vandals if they are found. Damage was not particularly extensive outside of these occurrences, except an occasion broken window.

The desk sergeant had a little trouble arranging the box score on stolen gates but ended up on the right side of the ledger with one gate to the good.

pate intelligently in the general welfare of the province. He said no doubt his opponents were all well able to cater to the first category, but affiliations, or the lack of affiliations, made the second a matter of great uncertainty.

IDEAL GOVERNMENT

Mr. Ramsay said Liberalism was an ideal of government based on a desire for the greatest good to the greatest number and opposed to unwarranted license or special privilege. It represented a viewpoint or attitude of mind which sought to give expression to the coctrine of fair play, equality and common justice. It pursued a policy of intelligent progress. It insisted upon measures for orderly advancement, but was opposed to impractical extremes. It was opposed to class government as it was opposed to class legislation. It was a believer in union in the full meaning of the term—not a union of discords, but a union of all classes and of all creeds. The province of British Columbia, he said, was over-burdened with debt, and its financial integrity was in jeopardy.

EXPERIENCE NEEDED

The present crisis was the result of incapable leadership, incompetence in administration, and irresponsible extravagance and waste of public money. This condition had been aggravated as times became worse. It was imperative that the provincial budget be balanced, yet there were essential services which must be maintained. To meet this dual purpose required practical knowledge and experience in public affairs and capable and courageous leadership.

REPLIES TO OPPONENTS

Turning to his opponents, Mr. Ramsay said C. F. Davies had five years to voice a protest he had published when the last Legislature was finally defunct, yet he had not taken any appreciable steps during these five years to implement the fourteen planks he claimed were still neglected. He had sacrificed the confidence of the electors and was not entitled to regain it.

Hugh Savage's utter lack of a definite platform made criticism of his attitude difficult. He was one more of the Independents responsible only to themselves. Apparently he was not ready to crystalize the vague abstraction he called a policy into something more definite of analysis by the electors.

Mr. Ramsay's chief objection to the policies proposed by Sam Guthrie's party, the C.C.F., was their absolute impracticability. The practical aspects of the C.C.F. programme had been part of the Liberal policy for years, he said. He called on the electors to employ careful judgment on election day. The Liberal party had a sound and progressive programme, and was led by men of ability and character.

PEARSON HEARD

George E. Pearson, Nanaimo, was given a fine reception when he appeared on the platform. His speech last evening was considered one of the finest delivered here in many years. Mr. Pearson said Mr. Ramsay's opponents were all fine fellows. He had never met Sam Guthrie, but he wanted to meet him. For fifty minutes the speaker rendered a brilliant analysis of provincial Liberalism. Alan Chambers, Victoria, also spoke in the interests of Mr. Ramsay. E. W. Forward was chairman.

ONE CAR CRASH

The hospitals reported a clean sheet except for admittance of one patient, Joseph Briggs, 3002 Scott Street, who suffered a broken collarbone when a car he was driving was sideswiped on Yates Street by another driven by Benjamin Barry, 1042 Clare Street. Mr. Brigg's machine turned on its side and was badly damaged. Dorothy Chapman, 3161 Fifth Street, who was a passenger, sustained slight injury to her hand.

George Tate, 515 Springfield Street, narrowly escaped injury in another mishap directly attributable to Hallowe'en. He was lighting some firecrackers for a young boy at the intersection of Yates and Douglas Streets when a street car approached and he apparently jumped into the line of the machine. The operator jammed on the emergency brake and the fender which automatically dropped in front caught him up. He had a bad bump on the head but it was not serious.

In the Arcade Building, shortly before 1 o'clock this morning a fire, started from a bomb thrown in a corridor, was prevented by F. H. Wells. The explosive had set fire to some loose paper but Mr. Wells stamped it out.

K. Elliott, 2627 Douglas Street, reported his car had been moved and a window in it broken. A veranda at 1030 Empress Avenue was decorated with over-ripe eggs.

HOUSE TO HOUSE

The smaller children appeared to be having the most fun, officers who toured the district throughout the evening said. Scores of them were in fancy costumes and toured from house to house soliciting "Hallowe'en apples" and other good things which householders were only too willing to provide, although toward the end of the evening stocks ran low because of the unusual demand.

One or two lads who used manual training aprons in which to carry their fireworks, decided against this policy for future years when, by misfortune, lighted crackers landed amongst their stock and the fireworks all blew up together, at the same time ruining their aprons and singing their stomachs.

Police used a zone system for patrolling the city which was divided into nine different sections with cars and motorcycles in each, the entire organization being directed from headquarters.

One false alarm was turned into the fire headquarters.

briefly so that the chief workers in the campaign might deliver brief addresses. He spoke of the clean campaign the Liberals had conducted in the riding, so clean and of such a high tone that even the newspaper opposed to him, The Daily Colonist, had felt called upon to come out in an editorial and compliment the Liberal organization upon it. Mr. Whitney-Griffiths went through the list of those who had played a part in his campaign and thanked them. He also expressed the feeling of high regard the old township of Esquimalt always evoked in him because it stood high in the British mind as the headquarters of the Canadian Navy which had been established under the Liberal, Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

"If returned at the head of the poll, I will try to do my duty," Mr. Whitney-Griffiths went on.

"In Mr. Whitney-Griffiths you have a man who is determined to lead the war on poverty which the Liberal Party has declared," said Mr. Chambers.

TO FALL IN LINE

"I say that the old stuff is done for and a new spirit is sweeping through the land—the spirit of co-operation. It is represented by the Economic Council the Liberal Party has promised to establish in B.C. In other words, a brain trust, if you like. I ask all of you that when this Liberal government is returned to have faith not only on November 2, but in the months and years to come, because that government is going to have the most colossal task that has faced any government upon going into office."

Norman Whittaker, Liberal candidate in Saanich, spoke of the fine ability, energy and integrity that go to make up Mr. Whitney-Griffiths.

"To know Mr. Whitney-Griffiths is to support him as a matter of course," Mr. Whittaker went on.

He named over the progressive planks of the Liberal platform.

"The best guarantee you can have of the Liberal Party putting its platform into effect is the past performance of the Liberal Party in the matter of its social legislation," Mr. Whittaker continued. "It was the party that gave the women and children the Testator's Family Maintenance Act, the eight-hour day and minimum wage law for women and girls, the Equal Guardianship of Infants Act, mothers' pensions and old age pensions. The women of this province should be grateful to the Liberal Party for all this legislation, and those of them in Esquimalt should show their appreciation by supporting Mr. Whitney-Griffiths, who in turn supports the party that gave them these things."

Mr. Whittaker recalled how the Premier, whom Mr. Pooley supports, had declared that there had been too much of this legislation.

"Under such conditions you cannot support Mr. Pooley and be fair to your children," Mr. Whittaker added.

He declared the Liberal party was united, had a definite policy, had leadership and was organized to put over its platform. He said that if it were necessary to blaze a new trail, Mr. Pattullo was the man with courage to do so.

"The people of Canada to-day are demanding action," Mr. Whittaker went on. "They are tired of inaction, but they are not ready for extreme radicalism. The province of B.C. is not going to be left behind in that wave that is now sweeping Canada."

T. T. Pullen of Metchosin said the constituency of Esquimalt never had a harder worker than Mr. Whitney-Griffiths. He pointed out that twelve C.C.F. candidates had so far put themselves up for election across Canada, and not one had yet been elected.

Capt. Bowen-Colthurst of Sooke declared James Eirick, Non-Partizan candidate, was a "square shooter, but handicapped because of the death of his leader, Mr. Bowser." He said, however, that Eirick was urging also that it was time for a change in Esquimalt.

"The C.C.F. and the United Front are not going to poll very much weight in Esquimalt, but they also agree that it is time for a change in Esquimalt," Capt. Bowen-Colthurst continued.

Now, coming to Mr. Pooley, what is the difference between politics and Pooley-tics. The dictionary says politics consists in wise and constructive measures for government, while Pooley-tics is what you have in Esquimalt.

"Pull is what there has been too much of in Esquimalt under the Tolmie government. Mr. Pooley is like a badger, the more he works, the more he gets into a hole.

"Mr. Pooley said in asking for the re-election of himself and the Tolmie government, 'It is better to vote for the devil you know, than for the devil you don't know.' But we don't intend to vote for the devil at all. We intend to vote for Whitney-Griffiths."

HIGH TYPE OF MAN

Jack Trace told of the high type of man and citizen the people of Luxton had found Mr. Whitney-Griffiths to be. "The more you know him, the better you like him," Mr. Trace said. "We find that what he has done for Luxton no other man has done or tried to do." He went on to give details of Mr. Whitney-Griffiths work over years in the public interests of the district.

J. F. Mesher told about how the West Coast road sprang from an initial move made for it by the Sooke Liberal Association. He declared the people of Port Renfrew had been waiting for it for twenty years. The Liberal government had started it, then along came the Tolmie government of which Mr. Pooley was a member, and at once removed all the machinery for its construction and distributed it among the constituencies on the mainland.

H. S. Sceats declared the Liberals were lucky in having a leader like Mr. Pattullo. He said the Unionists had only a leader who had steered the ship on the rocks, while the C.C.F. leader had been referred to as a "nine-headed monster."

Anthony Kohout of Sooke had his speech interrupted by Hallowe'en ghosts rappings from the back of the stage. When these quieted he urged the people of Esquimalt to give Mr. Whitney-Griffiths equal assistance after he is elected to what they are giving him before.

"When he is elected do not go to him and ask him for jobs for your wife, your son, your daughter or your mother-in-law," Mr. Kohout said.

M. Thorne of East Sooke said the people of Esquimalt in voting for Mr. Whitney-Griffiths would be voting for the finest candidate, and referred to the work he had done over years for the institutes and other rural welfare organizations.

Mrs. Deans Freeman sang during the evening and was enthusiastically encored, while Mrs. Carlton besides being accompanist rendered a number of piano solos.

The stage was profusely decorated with flowers by the women's organization, while all the speakers were presented with carnation buttonholes.

BANK INQUIRY REPORTED SOON

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—The report of the Royal Commission on Banking and Currency, which recently concluded its work under the chairmanship of Baron Macmillan, is now before the government. Steps will be taken for its distribution and publication. The cabinet dealt with the report yesterday afternoon, it is understood. No public announcement was made.

STATEMENT ON SOVIET TIMBER

missioner to the United Kingdom. After his statement yesterday evening Mr. Ferguson said he was awaiting instructions from Ottawa.

Two letters in which Canada set forth its claim Russian timber imports to the United Kingdom should be prohibited were sent to Moscow.

Mr. Ferguson said yesterday evening the action had been taken without Canada's consent. He added he based his objection to the action on fear it would cause "interminable" delay in Canada's claim which is based on a clause in the Canada-United Kingdom Ottawa trade agreement.

BRITISH FIRM'S ACTION

The high commissioner issued his statement yesterday evening after hearing the Board of Trade, which sent the letters to Moscow at the suggestion of Timber Distributors Limited, a firm handling Russian timber sales in Britain, had asserted it had permission of "His Majesty's Government in Canada."

As Mr. Ferguson explained it, he had given the Board of Trade permission to show the letters, one from Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and the other from himself, to the British firm whose members, he said, 'know more about the situation than does the government."

Last Friday, Mr. Ferguson continued, Timber Distributors Limited told the Board of Trade Russian authorities would have to see the letters, and they should be sent to Moscow, a proposal to which he objected vigorously.

"I protested," he said, "because I knew it would mean an almost interminable delay and possibly a bit of manoeuvring and defeat of our claim to have the (Ottawa) treaty recognized and implemented."

HERALD'S STATEMENT

London, Nov. 1.—Fair prominence was given in most London newspapers to-day to statements regarding the British government's dispatch to Russia of Canadian documents relating to timber imports. So far, however, the only newspaper comment on the matter has appeared in The Daily Herald, Labor, which described yesterday evening's disclosure as a "wild story."

"The whole bother is about nothing," said The Herald. "The chief contents of the document have been pretty widely known for some time, and a summary of them has been published." The Herald also noted "the quite vigorous protest when told what was going to happen," made by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canada's High Commissioner to the United Kingdom.

Liberal Leader Proud Of Island Candidates

TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTEEN

For the number of candidates and variety of parties and groups seeking control of the next Legislature a record that will probably never be equalled has been set. There are 216 candidates, and they come under eleven classifications as follows: Forty-seven Liberals, 13 Unionists, 34 Independent Non-Partizans, 46 C.C.F., 8 Independent C.C.F., 4 Conservatives, 19 United Front, 36 Independents, 4 Labor, 1 Independent Labor and 4 Socialists.

The poll is expected to be by far the highest ever recorded, not only by reason of the fact that in jumping from 245,240 to 307,267, it represents 62,000 more voters than were on the list at the British Columbia general election five years ago, but because of the intense interest which has been shown in the contest as reflected by the long strenuous campaign and the crowds that have attended the political meetings in every section of thtet tprovince.

ISLAND SEATS

While Victoria is in the role of a non-participant in the British Columbia general election proceeding throughout the rest of the province to-morrow the interest of the electorate is none the less keen. Liberals confidently forecast the remainder of the province will go overwhelmingly in favor of the constructive platform its leader and speakers have been presenting for several months past, but if this hope should not be realized, the Capital City may have the opportunity of casting the deciding vote on what party shall be in control of the next Legislature.

The contest to-morrow will also hold particular interest because electors will vote to fill six of the ten seats which Vancouver Island has in the B.C. Legislature. The seats are Nanaimo-Alberni, which was made one seat under the redistribution bill passed at the last session of the Legislature, Comox, Cowichan-Newcastle, Esquimalt, Saanich and the Gulf Islands. There are thirty-one candidates in the field.

The battle in Saanich and Esquimalt will draw the attention of the whole of the province as Premier Tolmie seeks endorsement in Saanich and Attorney-General Pooley in Esquimalt. In every constituency on the island there is keen rivalry. The candidates in each district are:

THE CANDIDATES

Nanaimo-Alberni—G. S. Pearson, Liberal member for Nanaimo in the last Legislature; Dr. G. A. B. Hall, Non-Partizan; Dr. Lyle Telford, C.C.F.; A. Cramb, United Front, and Dr. R. B. Dier, Independent.

Comox—L. A. Hanna, Liberal member for Alberni in the last Legislature; H. T. Allan, C.C.F.; G. R. Bates, Independent C.C.F.; H. G. Russell, United Front, and Richard Tarling, Independent.

Cowichan-Newcastle—David Ramsey, Liberal; C. F. Davie, K.C., Non-Partizan, Conservative member in the last Legislature; Sam Guthrie, C.C.F., and Hugh Savage, Independent.

Esquimalt—C. E. Whitney-Griffiths, Liberal; Attorney-General Pooley, Unionist; J. O. Elrick, Non-Partizan; C. N. Brown, C.C.F.

The Islands—Alex. McDonald, Liberal; J. B. Hardinge, Non-Partizan; Capt. William Ellis, C.C.F., and Col. W. W. Foster and R. Humber, Independents.

Saanich—N. W. Whittaker, Liberal; Premier S. F. Tolmie, Unionist; William Crouch, Independent; W. E. Peirce, C.C.F.

Liberals Offering Electors To-morrow "New Deal" For B.C.

The final appeal of Mr. McDonald to the Sidney electors was made in a straightforward, convincing manner. He expressed faith in the future of his constituency if it was given proper guidance under a stable and efficient administration by the Liberal party.

In addition to outlining the Liberal plans for solution of the province's debt problem, Mr. Hart recalled how the debt had been contracted and showed that while the Liberal government had added $60,000,000 over a period of twelve years for sensible development coupled with rehabilitation of soldiers following the war, the late Conservative government had increased it by a like amount in the short space of five years by wasteful and extravagant methods.

"It was only in 1912 or 1913 that the McBride-Bowser administration was broadcasting the glorious news that it had built up a surplus in the bank of $15,000,000 by sales and alienation of natural resources. But when the Liberals took over in 1916 this $15,000,000 was gone and there were large liabilities passed on. I dare say we will find the same thing when we take over after November 2 as a legacy from the last government," Mr. Hart said.

NEW POLICY

"In 1916 we were forced to consider our financial position very seriously, and finally developed the policy of borrowing only for capital expenditures. Current expenditure was kept within revenue. This was carried out during the Liberal regime, and while it is quite true that we added to the debt, it was done for definite purposes of development. The Tolmie administration would wish you to believe that they followed the same line of action, yet they had no policy whatever along this line. Over the period of twelve years we accrued about $13,000,000 of surpluses which were spent on government works for which we would otherwise had to borrow."

The Tolmie government, he said, had increased the debt by another $60,000,000 during its term of five years, but the trouble was no one knew what it had been spent on, except that huge deficits had piled up each year.

"You know," he said, "that 1932 was to be election year, but the union move by the premier failed. However, to make a good showing the Minister of Finance brought down a budget designed to make an $8,000 credit balance. The Opposition leader, Mr. Pattullo, analyzed it at that time and could foresee the deficit which actually occurred, and had to be admitted later, totaling something over $7,000,000. This year Mr. Jones had to tell the truth and his budget reveals from the start that there will be a $2,000,000 deficit, and I think it will be more."

COMMISSION ON BONDS

The credit of the province was gravely affected by mismanagement of the finances, Mr. Hart went on, and when the province went to sell its bonds it could find no market in Canada or the United States. It turned to Great Britain, but in doing so passed through the hands of four different establishments, each of which received commission. The bankers who introduced them to a Toronto bond house got £1,125, the Toronto house which introduced them to a London house got £7,500, the London house which introduced them to a syndicate to underwrite the bonds got £3,750, the syndicate took £15,000, the brokers got £3,240, and finally a one per cent. discount was given the investors. In other words, the province paid out £30,615 or $150,000 in commissions on the one issue.

"And Mr. Jones now says, 'Forget my past, my future is spotless,'" added Mr. Hart.

The speaker outlined the sale of a $4,000,000 issue in Canada on which he charged a secret commission was paid in face of strong protests from other bond houses which claimed they should be open to public tender. And on top of that it took the province four months to dispose of the $4,000,000 issue at a rate equal to 6.67 per cent. when the province of Ontario was selling a $25,000,000 issue in two days at just over 4 per cent. When an attempt was made in the House to secure information along this line, tabling of the correspondence was refused on a straight party vote.

NO SECRET DEALS

"The Liberals never sold a bond by secret deal or paid a cent of commission like this," he declared. "They were all sold by public tender during our term of office. I can remember the last sale I made as Finance Minister, twenty-nine bond houses from all over the United States and Canada bid on them and had to put up a certified cheque for $50,000 as a guarantee of good faith."

Mr. Hart criticised the government's method of economizing at the expense of the municipalities and pointed out that despite the so-called drastic economy, the 1933 budget was still $1,000,000 higher than the 1928 Liberal budget.

"It is quite evident, too, that it will continue to be higher, because of the vast increase in debt charges. For this reason we must attack the interest rates, not only in this province but throughout Canada. The Liberal party will see to it that this will be done," he said.

Federal legislation would be required to permit refunding of provincial bonds on a lower rate, he said. The provincial bonds would be recalled, exchanged with the Dominion Government for an equal amount and the new bonds then given to the bondholders, who, while accepting a lower rate of interest, would have a higher class of security, since the issue would be backed by the national credit.

Elimination of the one per cent tax from the small wage earners and the wiping out of the meal tax were other Liberal aims, he declared.

In conclusion, Mr. Hart showed how Premier Tolmie had failed to keep the promises of his 1928 election manifesto. He dealt with the Conservative platform of that time clause by clause, revealing the wholesale failure of the administration in carrying out its pledges.

BYRON JOHNSON

Mr. Johnson devoted practically his entire address to the problems of unemployment relief and public works control, but dealt briefly with the Liberal plan for freedom of speech for party members.

"It is useless to suggest that any party or any man has a sudden and successful remedy for the world-wide unemployment problem," he said. "Tariff barriers have been raised all over the world, and until the law of supply and demand is readjusted, economic stress is bound to follow. However, the supply and demand will not adjust itself soon enough for us and some form of public works is necessary to take care temporarily of unemployment."

Some people, he said, did not believe in this method of providing work, but, he argued, Great Britain was one nation which had launched a public works programme probably unparalleled in its history as a relief measure. In addition, other projects such as slum clearances, were aided by the government and provided work for many.

"The 'wait and see' policy of the Hoover administration was followed by the action of the Roosevelt government. At least the new U.S. government is doing something, and the Liberal plan is to get action as well," he continued.

BETTER UNDERSTANDING

In this connection he declared there was need for better understanding between the federal and provincial governments. The federal government must have faith in the province, such as it did not seem to have under the Tolmie government. He quoted figures of road expenditures to show the extravagant use to which the public funds had been put. Fifty per cent more had been spent on roads in the first three years of the Tolmie government than in the three years preceding it.

"And, strangely enough, you will notice that this section of the island has received no permanent road work under the Tolmie government. Your concrete highway to Sidney was laid under the Liberals," he said.

He criticised expenditure of $2,170,000 on a highway in Dewdney riding which practically paralleled an existing road in good condition. Expenditure of huge sums for machinery he also attacked.

"We must have value for our money," he insisted.

"After the experience of the last five years it is time we found some other way of doing this work. We want to get it out of the political atmosphere entirely, and for that reason we propose a highway commission."

Mr. Johnson mentioned the Liberal proposal to preclude defeat of the government except on a straight non-confidence motion and stated that he, himself, when approached to stand for nomination on the Liberal ticket, had done so on the distinct understanding that he would vote as he saw fit in the House.

Referring briefly to the C.C.F. programme, he said this was no time for experimental legislation or revolutionary legislation. Chaos could easily result if people leaned a little too far backward in picking their next government.

CANDIDATE SPEAKS

Alex McDonald, the candidate, referred first to the fact that it was his final public appearance of the campaign, which had been a long and strenuous one, although enjoyable, because he had had the opportunity of exchanging views with people all over the riding.

It had been a queer campaign in view of the split in one of the old parties, tending to confuse the issue in the minds of the electors, he said. It was evident, however, that people were giving more thought to political views and considering seriously the marking of their ballots.

He concluded with an expression of thanks to those who had supported him in the campaign. He said he felt proud to be associated with the splendid type of candidates offered by the Liberal party, especially those on lower Vancouver Island with whom he had come in contact.

"I have great faith in the future of the islands, and greater faith in the people. With a new party in power I think we can look for rapid development in this section of the country. While realizing you do not desire revolutionary methods, I am certain you will endorse a sane and safe progressive programme."

"Now that the curtain is going to come down on the election campaign I hope you will not forget my esteemed friend, Mr. McDonald," said Major Gus Boyes in a brief speech. "You will have a straight, honest and upright man to represent you if you mark your ballots for him."

John Matthews was the chairman.

AFTER ACCIDENT SHE PUT ON WEIGHT

Kruschen Took It Off Again!

"A year ago I had a very bad account of the consequences of an auto accident in which she was involved:

"A year ago I had a very bad automobile accident, which left me more or less a cripple. Having to lie in bed so long, and being unable to move, I began to put on flesh. When I was able to walk a little again, I found I was 144 lbs., and being just under 5 feet you may guess how I was placed. So I thought I would try Kruschen Salts, and I must say they have done me a lot of good in every way—but chiefly in keeping my weight down. In three months I lost 6 lbs. Then I left off taking the Kruschen, and I soon went up to 142 lbs again. So at once I got Kruschen, and am again steadily reducing. My weight last month was 134 lbs."—(Mrs.) W. H. M.

Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, will be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

U.B.C. Receives Gift Of Electrical Equipment

Board of Governors Accepts Machinery From B.C. Telephone Co.; Financial Aid For Students in Need

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—Gift of electrical equipment from the British Columbia Telephone Company, valued by officials of the University of British Columbia at approximately $10,000, was accepted by the board of governors at a monthly meeting this week. The machinery has been installed in the electrical laboratory.

The governors also announced appointment of Dr. Blythe Eagles, university graduate, as associate professor and acting head of the department of dairying to succeed Prof. Wilfrid Sadler, who recently died.

AID FOR STUDENTS

A total of $2,100 has been contributed by fourteen Vancouver citizens to be used in bursaries for indigent students of high scholastic standing as a result of the drive recently made by the governors, it was stated following the meeting. Fifteen to twenty students will be enabled to continue their work as a result.

The board also voted $540 from university funds for loans to undergraduates to supplement $800 previously granted. A loan of $100 to a graduate registered in the teachers' training course, offered by the High School Teachers' Association, was accepted by the governors.

WHEAT RESEARCH

An agreement between the Dominion Department of Agriculture and the university for research in wheat by Dr. G. G. Moe of the university was approved by the board. The federal government has granted $800 for the purpose.

Because of the smaller enrolment it was decided to add a number of courses which had been eliminated because of economy. Two courses in French, one in German, two in mathematics, one in English and three in forestry will be given in response to student demand.

RICH GOLD FIND IN COLORADO

Two Prospectors Take $75,000 Out of Their Mine in Few Days

Associated Press

Mancos, Colo., Nov. 1.—Gold nuggets, picked up by the handful and estimated to be worth $70,00, have been taken from the Arrowhead Mine since last Friday, when two prospectors made a strike which may prove one of the richest in southwestern Colorado, mining men learned to-day.

In the vaults of a bank here the men have cached sacks of gold ore running from $10 to $30 a pound, and mining men say the strike may have uncovered the old May Day vein, one of the richest in the state, from which a huge fortune in gold was taken. Prospectors have been searching for an outcropping of the May Day vein for fifty years.

The two prospectors, C. H. Starr and G. W. Gilmore, have been working the claim by hand, and because of the value of the ore have moved it to bank vaults in small lots almost as soon as it was mined. They decline to discuss their strike of "pay dirt," but mining men say they have struck a high grade ore vein five feet wide and of an unestimated length. The richest section of the vein, from which the $10 to $30 ore comes, is sixteen inches wide. It gets bigger as the shaft is driven into the mountain.

One miner who claimed to have seen some of the nuggets said the larger ones weigh as much as half a pound. They are almost pure gold.

FORD EXPORTS SHOW INCREASE

Will Be 80% Greater From Canada to Overseas Territories This Year

East Windsor, Nov. 1.—As a result of greatly improved economic conditions in the dominions and more favorable exchange relations, particularly between the dollar and the British pound, exports of the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited to its overseas territories will be eighty per cent. greater in 1933 than in 1932, Wallace R. Campbell, president, reported to-day.

Ford overseas shipments to these territories, for the first nine months of this year, will exceed the entire twelve months of 1932. The upturn in exports began in April with the introduction of the new V-8 car overseas. The improvement in the overseas territories has been well sustained since that time. Shipments from the East Windsor plant to the dominions will be heaviest during the last quarter.

Mr. Campbell said that the improvement in the company's export business has been most marked in Australia, India and South Africa, where deliveries in the second half of the year are running at an average of 300 per cent. over those in the first half. The increased volume in both New Zealand and the Malaya company's territory, while not as great, is, however, most promising.

OFFICIALS ARE REINSTATED

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—L. J. Gabaury, Deputy Postmaster-General, and Arthur Webster, secretary of the Post Office Department, have been reinstated. This was announced by Hon. Arthur Sauve, Postmaster-General, yesterday.

Mr. Gaboury and Mr. Webster were suspended pending investigation into expenditures of money by departmental officials on the Universal Postal Committee, which met here last summer.

At the time of the suspension it was explained Premier Bennett had intervened in the matter. This intervention had come, Mr. Sauve said, following an investigation ordered by himself and after he had refused to authorize printing of an album and his refusal to order payment. It was the printing of this album for presentation to the delegates which started the investigation.

EGG CONTEST AT AGASSIZ

Hens Start Off on Fourteenth Annual Dominion Laying Competition

Canadian Press

Agassiz, B.C., Nov. 1.—With the record-breaking egg laid yesterday by Doreen 10-L barley cooled, more than 500 British Columbia hens were gathered to-day in pens at the Dominion experimental farm here for a year's effort to break the champion White Leghorn's mark of 357 eggs in 365 days.

"Dauntless Derreen" had been returned with her eleven pen-mates to the farm of her owner, M. H. Rutledge, at Sardis, B.C., but a new group of pullets started the fourteenth annual Dominion Egg-laying Contest. If, at the expiration of the fifty-one-week contest period, one or more of these birds retains a chance to better the existing mark, she will be kept at the farm for the remaining week of the year.

W. H. Hicks, farm superintendent, was so busy preparing for the opening of the new contest that he had little time to consider the remarkable achievement of Derreen 10-L. Hundreds of hens were received at the farm, all to be banded and weighed.

The superintendent said, however, that Derreen was the greatest egg-producer living. The co-holder of the record, No Drone 5-H, owned by W. Whiting of Port Kells, B.C., which established the high mark in 1930, is dead and no other hen has come "within cackling distance" of the record.

Actually, said Mr. Hicks, Derreen established a better record than No Drone! for in the fifty-one weeks of the contest proper, the present egg-laying wonder laid 350 while No Drone laid only 349 in the fifty-one weeks of the 1929-30 competition.

Derreen's record was a great one, declared Mr. Hicks, but added, "I expect to see day day when another hen will beat her."

INSULL, FREE IN ATHENS, RESTS

Associated Press

Athens, Greece, Nov. 1.—Again free, Samuel Insull, former utilities czar in the U.S. Middle West, to-day ate in a comfortable lounge at the Grande Bretagne Hotel here and received congratulations of friends and acquaintances on his escape from extradition.

Insull expressed interest in whether Forest Harness, who represented the United States in the extradition effort before the Greek court of appeal, had left Athens.

"It would have been a great feather in the young fellow's cap if he could have escorted me back with him," he said. "I am very sorry for Harness."

"The reaction after all I had gone through spent itself in sleep and this morning I am greatly refreshed," Insull said.

He still was absorbed with yesterday's verdict and public opinion concerning it.

GOLD MINING IN U.S. INCREASES

Associated Press

Washington, Nov. 1.—The new high prices the United States government is paying for gold under President Roosevelt's monetary programme are booming the mining industry in producing states, but Bureau of Mines officials are not sure domestic production will increase to pre-war levels.

Before high wages and production costs that came with the war, the United States ranked as the second largest gold producing country. In 1915 its output was valued at $101,035,700, compared with South Africa's $217,851,989 and Canada's $18,977,901.

The 1932 United States production was valued at $50,621,500, with miners receiving $20.67 an ounce. South Africa and Canada produced gold valued at $263,460,000 and $63,061,000 respectively. The world market price ranged in the vicinity of $30 an ounce and in Canada producers received a benefit over the government mint price through a bonus.

"Increase of the price of gold will increase production, of course," said Dr. F. L. Hess of the Bureau of Mines, "but nobody can tell how much the increase will be."

U.S. PACIFIST SUES AUTHOR

Rosika Schwimmer, above, eminent United States pacifist, is suing Upton Sinclair, the author, and William Fox, former movie producer, for $100,000 libel damages, charging that in Sinclair's book on Fox she was depicted in an unfavorable light in approaching Fox with the Peace Ship plan to end the World War. This story, Miss Schwimmer claims, has hurt her reputation as a lecturer, writer and her character as a pacifist.

Outcome of Municipal Elections To-day Closely

Canadian Press

London, Nov. 1.—Several thousand candidates, representing every known British political color and more than a few undefined hues presented themselves at the municipal elections in England to-day. London alone was excepted, for the Metropolitan County Council retires triennially, whereas in other parts of the country one-third of the municipal council retires annually.

Municipal elections are deemed to afford an index to the trend of popular thought in matters of wider import.

Three years ago in the municipal elections Labor appeared to have a powerful grasp on some of the biggest industrial centres like Leeds, Bradford, Hull and Sheffield. The party's collapse in national politics was followed by loss of power in municipal affairs.

This year local Labor has made a determined effort to retrieve its position. In many places, however, the position was complicated by appearance of candidates representing interests which no party has ever yet espoused.

Anti-Laborites in defending themselves have been able to point to a reduction in rates since the Laborites dominated, in many instances. The Socialists retorted such reductions were effected through the starvation of social services.

Slum clearance was about the only big general topic discussed, both sides expressing eagerness to give the problem first consideration.

Cousin of Queen Dies in London

Associated Press

London, Nov. 1.—Colonel Sir Augustus FitzGeorge, great grandson of King George III and a cousin of Queen Mary, died Monday at the age of eighty-six.

Like his father, who was commander-in-chief of the British army for many years during the reign of Queen Victoria, Sir Augustus followed an army career and had exciting adventures in many lands.

He claimed he had shot every kind of big game in the world. Until recent years he was an ardent golfer.

Boa Constrictor Pasadena Recaptured

Canadian Press

Pasadena, Calif., Nov. 1.—Good folk of Pasadena sighed with relief to-day, for Elmer, a six-foot trained boa constrictor, was safe at home—just as many Pasadenans had been since he got loose Sunday.

Elmer's owner, C. C. Stickney, took him for an automobile ride and "lost" him Sunday when the cage came open as the machine rounded a corner. Thenceforth the populace had one chill after another.

Yesterday a pedestrian saw the reptile dangling from a parkway tree. Stickney hot-footed it to the scene and whistled to his pet. Elmer slithered down the tree and crawled into his cage.

The Jordan River Social Hall was the scene of a very jolly Hallowe'en party, October 27. The school teacher, Miss M. Hodgson, was in charge of the arrangements. The children present were dressed in very pretty fancy dress costumes, many representing different nationalities. Prizes were awarded to Phyllis Cox, Beryl Johnson, Beverly Rough and Lucille Turcott for the best costumes. The evening began with a programme by the school children, including recitations, songs and a short Hallowe'en play, which was much enjoyed by the audience. Afterwards everyone joined in games and dancing. There was a balloon race for the children, Vivian Blade being the winner. Refreshments were served during the evening, the tables having been decorated very artistically by the teacher and pupils.

Mrs. L. Patt and small daughter Marjorie, have returned from Vancouver, where they have been spending several weeks with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Bany.

Mrs. E. G. Gordon is staying with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. Lindner in Victoria, for a week or two.

Prizewinners at the fortnightly bridge party held October 28 were: Ladies first, Mrs. R. A. Johnson; second Mrs. A. Sjoberg; gents' first, A. Sjoberg; second, C. Bent.

Young Men Too Busy For Social Affairs

Pender Island, Nov. 1. — Further plans for the organization of a Young People's Society have had to be postponed for the time being owing to the fact that most of the young men are at present too busily engaged in the local fishing industries.

Roy Dickinson, Vancouver, brother of Miss M. L. Dickinson, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Adams over the week-end and will remain on the island for some weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Sloan, Vancouver, have been visiting Mrs. Sloan's mother, Mrs. F. Phelps.

Mrs. A. A. Davidson Sr. and Miss Rose Calrone have been spending the last week with relatives in Victoria.

Nels Norman, who has been logging up the coast for the last three months, has returned home.

Ss. Otter has again put in an appearance, being seen quite frequently of late in the vicinity of Otter Bay, where she is being used in the herring industry.

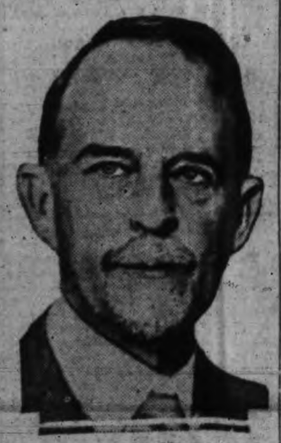

W. J. Sproule is down from Vancouver on a visit to his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Art Sproule.

Mrs. Wood has returned to her home in Vancouver after spending the last month with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Don Cousineau at Otter Bay. Mrs. Cousineau and children accompanied her.

Mrs. A. Sutcliffe, Vancouver, was a guest last week of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Grimmer, and was accompanied by her friend, Mrs. England.

The Canadian Forestry Association will show some interesting moving pictures in Hope Bay Hall Tuesday evening providing a treat for the children on the occasion of their annual Hallowe'en party.

TO-MORROW'S VERDICT

Premier Tolmie in Saanich and Hon. R. H. Pooley in Esquimalt, to-morrow will receive the verdict of the electors on the record of the provincial government in the last five years. That record is decidedly unsatisfactory, otherwise the Conservative party under whose auspices the government was elected in 1928 would not have disappeared and former ardent supporters would not now be running as Independents and by implication repenting of their association with it. It is marked by an increase of the public debt at the rate of a million dollars a month, deficits which in some instances have reached $7,000,000 in a single year; a veritable orgy of extravagance in the Public Works Department in which the purchase of $3,000,000 worth of road machinery which could not now be sold at more than a fifth of that sum, is almost a bagatelle; alarming increases of taxation, including the noxious one per cent tax, the meal tax and the several raises in the gasoline tax, and other disabilities under which the electorate is suffering. The election of the Premier and Attorney-General to-morrow would be regarded as an endorsement of that record.

How can the electors in the various constituencies contribute to the best interests of the province—which means their own best interests—either by endorsing the record which is admittedly unsatisfactory or sending to the Legislature representatives who acknowledge no leadership, who either have not the slightest idea what they are going to do, or are advocating fantastic theories of government which can not be carried out? The Tolmie government has been unable to induce more than a dozen candidates to acknowledge themselves its supporters; the Independents for the most part dare not confess their former association with it for fear of defeat at the polls and dare not even indicate who in their opinion should be entrusted with the vitally important duty of forming a government. The C.C.F. candidates are advocating impossible policies and methods of administration, with all the ear-marks of an attempt to set up the Russian system of Communistic dictatorship with its confiscation and atheism, which, it is significant to note, some of its leaders are vigorously defending and of which men like Mr. Pritchard are avowed prophets.

Against all this confusion is the prospect of stable, orderly government under an acknowledged courageous and determined leader, in the opportunity to return the candidates running under the auspices of the Liberal party and Mr. Pattullo's leadership. It is a case of stability versus confusion. The Liberal candidates for stability are Mr. Norman Whittaker in Saanich, Mr. Whitney-Griffiths in Esquimalt, Mr. Alex. Macdonald in the Islands, Mr. David Ramsay in Cowichan-Newcastle, Mr. Pearson in Alberni-Nanaimo, and Mr. Hanna in Comox. In returning them the electors in those districts would be promoting their own best interests and contributing to the safe, sane and progressive administration which this province needs so badly at this time.

THE LUMBER CONTROVERSY

British Columbia is watching with very keen interest every move in the Anglo-Russian negotiations connected with the new trade agreement between the British and Soviet governments and its application to lumber. The latest development seems to have caused a good deal of excitement in London and considerable surprise in Ottawa. Premier Bennett has insisted that Article 21 of the Canada-United Kingdom treaty be invoked—this provides for protection of Canadian products against unfair foreign competition in the British market—and a letter to the government in London set forth his views. It appears that this communication, together with one in a similar tone from High Commissioner Ferguson, sent to the British Board of Trade, has been passed on to the authorities at Moscow. The net result of this procedure, in Mr. Ferguson's opinion, will be an interminable delay in reaching a settlement of this complicated and delicate point. Indeed, the High Commissioner fears manoeuvring with the object of defeating Canada's claim for which Article 21 of the treaty furnishes the foundation.

Canada has everything to gain by pressing this point of lumber sales to Great Britain to the fullest extent. But apart from the prime consideration of the cost of delivering this province's lumber to the British market, which is a good deal higher than the price at which Russia and her northern European neighbors can deliver it, the position of Great Britain in respect of her general trade relations with Soviet Russia has to be considered. Russian orders for some time have been keeping several thousands of British workmen in employment and there does not seem to be any disposition to interfere with this much-needed industrial activity. Back of Britain's reluctance to act hastily in the matter of lumber imports, of course, is the knowledge that any policy of economic discrimination she may institute against Russia would be followed by the diversion by Moscow of orders for machinery and other commodities in which Britain and Germany are in keen competition to Germany.

There is still another factor, and it is a formidable one, in Anglo-Russian relations which to a very considerable extent will influence Britain's commercial policy towards the Soviet Union. Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs, is now on his way to the United States, the chief purpose of whose visit is United States recognition of the Moscow government—and the establishment of trade relations on the basis of long-term credits. Time will tell how successful the Russian envoy will be; but Litvinoff is a shrewd negotiator and the United States is looking for new business. It is perhaps natural, therefore, that Great Britain should hesitate to tell Russia her lumber is not welcome in the British market because Canada says its importation violates Article 21 of the Canada-United Kingdom treaty, for British industry, already racing with that of Germany to supply Russia's needs, will not desire to compete with that of the United States at a disadvantage, such as the British government's discrimination with respect to lumber might well impose.

HUMANE AND ECONOMICAL

"Every election bait held out to the people is in the nature of political largesse which could be derived from the taxpayers alone. State Health Insurance is one of these baits. The probability is that if a referendum were taken on this issue it would be defeated by ten to one."—The Colonist.

When our contemporary suggests that a referendum taken on state health insurance would be defeated ten to one it is indulging in a generality which implies that it has not given adequate consideration to the subject. If it will consult the report presented by the Royal Commission on state health insurance a year or so ago—this body was appointed by the Tolmie government—it will find this concluding paragraph:

> After entering upon as exhaustive a study of this problem as has been possible in the limited time at our disposal, we finish our labors and emerge from our inquiry with the following conclusions definitely established from the evidence: Without health, and the means of preserving it, the usefulness of human life is seriously impaired, and, apart from the unhappiness morbidity inflicts upon the individual, an indirect, but nevertheless trenchant, economical loss is imposed upon the community the moment earning-power is injured. With the development, side by side with curative measures, of a sickness-preventive service, an ideal system will be set up for the effectual handling of what may be properly described as the greatest benefit to mankind—the maintenance of good health. In this direction also lies the solution in a very large measure of the problem surrounding the present and constantly increasing unsatisfactory condition of hospital finance, which, to say the least, is an appalling spectacle in an institution so vital to the health and well-being of the public.

The members of the Royal Commission, in recommending the early establishment of a suitable compulsory health insurance plan, including maternity benefits, declared they were "thoroughly imbued with the momentous and incalculable beneficial effects which kindred schemes in the Old World are producing in alleviating for the poorer classes the dread incubus of sickness costs, thereby reducing premature mortality, and raising the general standard of health among the masses." It surely will not be seriously argued that a scheme calculated to produce results such as the Commission's report describes would be defeated ten to one.

It will be recalled that hospital financing occupied a good deal of attention from the Commission and one of its conclusions was that in such a scheme lies the solution in large measure of "the present and constantly increasing unsatisfactory condition of hospital financing . . . an appalling spectacle in an institution so vital to the health and well-being of the public." It is well known, of course, and the Commission found it so, that practically every hospital in British Columbia is carrying on from hand-to-mouth, able to survive only by public grants and private donations, the cause being the inability to collect any of the cost of treatment from a large proportion of patients; fifty per cent of the bills payable to the hospitals, the report says, can not be collected. As the Commission remarks, if a hospital could select its risks—obviously an unthinkable thing—the handicap would not exist. But as conditions are they constitute the most disquieting feature about hospital management.

It is clear that provincial taxpayers are contributing large amounts annually to make up for patients who can not pay, whereas if hospital treatment was provided for by a compulsory health insurance plan, the financing of these institutions would cease to be a nightmare to their governing boards, and the taxpayers' load would be materially reduced. The way to insure the establishment of a scheme of state health insurance, therefore, is to see that Liberals head the poll where voting takes place to-morrow.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE WHEAT AGREEMENT
The Regina Leader-Post

The price of wheat has actually gone down since the wheat agreement was entered into at London. The Leader-Post has no faith in Mr. Bennett's schemes to make the country more prosperous by scarcity and to increase employment by cutting down the production of goods and the use of services.

THE SMALL PROPRIETOR
The La Presse, Montreal

Amongst the unemployed who cannot receive state relief, no class is more truly deserving of pity than the laborer-owner, who has put all his savings into the construction of a house in the hope of making his home there or of getting some small pecuniary return for it. Many of these owners are to-day in the depths of misery and threatened with losing the fruits of the unremitting toil of many years; deprived of work, unemployed like any other worker, they are debarred from public relief, for no other reason than that they are described as proprietors, and that they figure in the list of landlords of the city.

IMMIGRATION
The Ottawa Journal

The whole history of immigration is of people flowing to a country where there are work, wages and decent living conditions. Perhaps, therefore, our task at the present time is not to put the cart before the horse and to spend money bringing immigrants here, but rather that we should make Canada the sort of country to which immigrants will come—and in which they will remain—of their own accord. In other words, our task would seem to be to show the world that we can take care of the people we have here, and that, in addition, we can take care of others. We are not doing that now, and, until we can do it, talk about spending money to add to the numbers of those we can't care for doesn't seem to be as sound as it might be.

A THOUGHT

Come down and sit in the dust, O virgin daughter of Babylon, sit on the ground; there is no throne.—Isaiah xlvii 1.

Loose Ends

We go back to the old town—expecting too much—and we find that everything has changed—and old Croteau has gone with his horses—and the old bar is closed now—and Jim Barker's store—and we are twenty-five years older.

By H. B. W.

COING BACK

AS SOON AS we came to the long hill I knew something had happened, either to the hill or, as I suspected, to us. The long hill, the steep, dangerous hill of the old days, had suddenly become small and mean, a mere dip in the road. What a climb it used to be on the hard-packed snow, and our toboggans would race down it almost to Josh Strong's blacksmith shop, where you could warm your hands over the forge. Now our car slipped down without the brakes.

And there was the old town spread below us—mean and small like the hill, down-at-heel and shabby and tired-looking. It had been a real frontier post in our time, when the railway was coming through, with frequent shootings-up and stabbings-down among the bohunk construction gangs and men lived hard and joyously, expecting every one of them, to be a millionaire next week. Now all that was gone. You could feel the dull respectability in the air. The town was striving pathetically after the civilization of its big coast brothers on the other side of the mountains and it looked like a poor country relation just come to the city.

If you are a British Columbian, it is a great mistake to come back to the place where you were brought up. In the restless growth of this young country nothing remains as you left it. Everything has expanded or shrunk. It can't stand still, but must be forward or back. We had dreamed countless times of coming home, Jimmy and I. We had talked over the old haunts and the old people. And all we found was that everything had changed and we were twenty-five years older than we used to be. We could never have suspected it if we hadn't come back to the old town like this, expecting so much. Far better to have kept to the main road, to have stayed away altogether, imagined everything as it was, and never realized that we had actually grown up.

OLD GLORIES

THERE WAS THE old green hotel on the main street, faded and weather-beaten and a little sunk at one corner, a tiny hovel of a place. Why, it had been a palace of romance a quarter of a century ago! Once we spent a night there in Oriental luxury and there were five courses on the bill of fare! The bar room, with its mahogany bar which seemed half a mile long, used to be filled with cowboys in wooly chaps, miners in high boots and red mackinaws and sometimes revolvers in their belts—bohunks from the railway gangs who could hardly speak English, dudes form the Coast who had white collars.

We used to watch them from the street outside and the vast rows of shiny bottles, the mirrors that glinted in the light of the big coal-oil lamps, the white aprons of the bar tenders. It was cold out on the street in the first snow and the big warm bar room looked like heaven. Of course, we knew it was very wicked and often some fellow would be heaved out into the snow, but this gilded vice of the frontier fascinated us, made us feel hard and tough like the country.

Now the old bar room was a beer parlor, dingy, dark, gloomy, respectable beyond words. A couple of mirrors alone remained of the old glory. The fellow who served the beer had never heard of Bill O'Shea, whose vast expanse of red vest used to hang over the bar like a mountain. He had never heard of Lucky Dod, the prospector from Big Horn Creek, who got drunk here once a month regularly, built a bonfire in the main street and howled all night like a wolf until someone silenced him with more liquor. The beer parlor man knew nothing of this, nothing of the celebration on the night when the railway came through, nothing of the shooting fight behind Croteau's livery stable. Actually, the fellow was sunk so low that he wanted to talk about the provincial election!

DECADENCE

AND CROTEAU'S LIVERY stable—it was gone altogether. Croteau had turned it into a modern garage and he was gone now, too. Ah, the rich smell of the old stable, the music of forty horses munching their oats, the clink of harness buckles, the jingle of sleigh bells as some new team drove up for the night! Sometimes old Texas, if he were more than usually full of brandy, would let us help him curry down the horses or maybe lead them out to the water trough to drink—dear old Texas who had been a bandit in the southwest, had been a killer, they said, and was wanted in half a dozen states, but who was as gentle as a woman with his horses and with us.

Texas had gone long ago, and Jean Lebrun, the giant French-Canadian who used to drive his sleek black horses down forty miles from Wicked River in one day and stamp into Croteau's in his huge fur coat like a bear. The cowboys who came into town with the cattle drives, in their chaps and jangling spurs, the drivers of the four-horse passenger stages, the teamsters of the six-horse freight stages—where had they gone? And what happened to Prince, that superb bay stallion, who used to drink a bowl of tea out of old Croteau's hand every morning? No one knew. They were fixing a Ford in the corner where Prince's box stall had been.

Yes, there were cars galore, but no horses. Not a single horse. That was the hardest thing for us to realize, for in the old days there were horses everywhere, as many horses as men. I remember the first horse I owned, as if I had bought him yesterday. The Indians had brought him off the winter range—a poor, lean, shaggy-coated roan who could hardly hold his head off the ground and couldn't go faster than a weak trot. The Indians took $27 for him and had a splendid drunk on the strength of it, while we nursed and coddled the pony into such a sleekness and girth that I could hardly get my legs around him next spring.

PROGRESS

NOW, THEY SAID, you couldn't hire a horse for any price, unless you drove out to the Indian village ten miles away. Cars were parked on every street and no one paid any attention to them. But in my time the first two cars to reach the valley, single-cylinder contraptions that banged like a trip hammer, would draw everyone to his door, and empty the big bar room, as they chugged past at the wild speed of twelve miles on hour. No one believed, of course, that they would be any good and Jim Barker, who had bought them to deliver parcels from his store, soon went back to horses. His two horseless buggies rusted in the snow behind the store.

Even the store was closed and boarded up, for the town had moved up the river from there—the vast and dingy store where they used to sit around the big drum stove and talk about the great days just ahead, when the town would suddenly become a city and everybody in it would be rich. We used to listen on the outskirts, wide-eyed at these marvels, and sometimes we could manage to steal a candy or a sweet biscuit out of a barrel while Jim Barker was arguing with Hughie Crowe about a fellow named Dick McBride. And when McBride came to town on the night the railway was opened they gave him a blow-out that filled the whole dining-room and parlor in the hotel and several fellows had dress suits with boiled shirts.

DRAMA

IN THE GREAT, draughty hall above Jim Barker's store they used to hold dances, which we would watch through the windows, and sometimes we would be taken in for the refreshments. Sundays there were church services with Dr. Whipple playing a piano to accompany his own solos, which were sung in a weird falsetto.

Once a negro minstrel troupe came to town and played on the tiny platform there, with a gorgeous black woman in a fur coat and diamonds, who sang "The Rosary," over and over again, until several fellows were sniffling and had to retire and drown their sorrow. Another time a road company came to town to present "The Squaw Man" but, that gentleman having become polluted and unconscious, young Rodney Price, who had been on the stage in England, learned the part in the afternoon and played it at night while we all cheered.

But Barker's hall was empty now and the windows broken and all its dramatic and religious glories had departed. No one seemed to remember that the first movie seen in the valley had been shown there—a story of hair pants which made us laugh, for we knew hair pants in those days. We wore them.

We didn't stay long in the old town. We wanted to forget, if we could, what it had become, how in chasing civilization, it had lost its soul. As we drove down the road, over the new steel bridge, where we used to catch little trout under a bridge of creaking wood, as we passed the empty remains of Jean Strong's blacksmith shop and sped up the big hill on high, and so into the yellow forest of autumn poplars, we said nothing of the old town to each other. We were feeling a hundred years old.

A PETITION OF GRIEVANCE

To the Editor:—May I be permitted to call the attention of your readers to the contemptuous treatment accorded by the city aldermanic board to the delegation appointed by a citizens' meeting to wait upon the council urging that in view of the rising cost of living, the growing wretchedness of the poor women and children now upon relief, and the additional distress confronting them during this coming winter, that is almost at our doors, a 25 per cent increase in maintenance allowance be granted to offset to some extent the several cuts which have recently been effected in their scale.

Dr. Clem Davies, myself (a task for which I am altogether unfitted, and which I tried to escape), Mr. Moir, the United Front candidate in the provincial election, and a well-known lady in the active service of this community, with several others, were appointed on that deputation by resolution of the meeting. Two thousand handbills were printed calling attention to the resolution and the proposed visit to the council chamber, and a petition signed by over 2,000 people, largely church-goers, had been prepared for submission to the council.

The meeting instructed the secretary to notify the council of the resolution that had been passed, and requesting permission to appear on the night in question. In response to this request a reply was received that such could not be granted for the Monday night, but suggesting an afternoon meeting on one day of last week. As the members of the appointed delegation lived in scattered parts of the city, and could not therefore be very well reached in time, and as the handbills had been printed announcing the action contemplated, the council was informed that such proposed afternoon

PRAYERS

Somewhere beyond the walls of earth,
Beyond the deeps of space,
The little whispered prayers go up
To seek God's holy place.

A mother's prayer, a father's prayer,
A baby's stumbling words,
Oh, higher, higher they ascend,
Like strong-winged, joyous birds!

The prayers for life, the prayers for love,
They rise with every breath,
And sometimes, from a stricken soul,
A prayer that pleads for death.

Beyond the stars, beyond the suns,
Mount prayers that soar and sing;
The prayers that prove man's kinship to
The God towards whom they wing!

THE TRUTH ABOUT RUSSIA

By A. BRODIE SANDERS

The Colonist repeats the assertion that "there is an indistinguishable difference between the tenets of the C.C.F. and Communism."

The doctrine of Communism is that in the collapse of the profit system, now plainly inevitable, events should be left to follow their evolutionary course until, in the chaos of the revolutionary era ultimately arising, the exploited masses establish a proletarian dictatorship. It is in fact a doctrine of fatalism.

The C.C.F., on the contrary, maintains that as intelligent beings we should, while there is yet time, put our house in order and win security by arranging for the equitable distribution of the goods that we can now rapidly produce in almost incredible abundance. It further asserts that the necessary reforms can and should be obtained by peaceable means, and that among a democratic people like ourselves, the will of the people must ultimately prevail. As Abraham Lincoln stated in his inaugural address, "This country with its institutions belongs to the people who inhabit it. Whenever they grow weary of the existing government, they can exercise their constitutional right of amending it, or their revolutionary right to dismember or overthrow it." Magna Charta, the Bill of Rights, the B.N.A. Act and the Declaration of Independence are all instances of revolutionary change by proper and peaceful methods. Our ignorant critics confuse this fundamental distinction of principles with the subject of economic planning, now advocated widely, and having no connection whatever with Communism as such. Thus, Professor Hanson of the faculty of economics in the University of Minnesota states: "Roosevelt's policy points quite rightly to the conclusion that an autocratic planned economy such as Russia's has no inherent relation to Communism as such. Such a regime is quite as feasible under a system of private property and capitalism." The C.C.F. asserts that satisfactory results are unattainable in the U.S.A. owing to the inherent defects of the capitalist system, and this view is corroborated by the evidence so far available. It is, in fact, frankly admitted that even if the prosperity of the period 1925-1929 could be regained, not less than eight million workers would remain unemployed owing to recent improvements in machinery, as compared with the figure of five million unemployed in 1925.

The Colonist asserts that economic planning has also failed in Russia. That assertion, even if correct, would not condemn planning elsewhere, for Russia made the experiment under most unfavorable conditions, without skilled workers, capital or machinery, and in the wake of the ruin caused by the Great War, the revolution, civil war and foreign invasion. But the assertion is in fact demonstrably false, as the evidence now available establishes beyond all possibility of dispute.

Admittedly great difficulties have had to be met and overcome, and much privation endured, but when has the Russian peasant been free from suffering and privation? Certainly not under the Czarist regime, as the present writer can testify. These difficulties were in fact foreseen and inevitable. The government could not establish all the necessary new industries at the start. A beginning had to be made with the heavy or metal industries, for defence and other obvious reasons. This necessarily involved a shortage in goods that could be handed to the peasants in exchange for their food products, such as clothing, boots, blankets, etc., and this in turn caused a shortage of food supplies. The peasants in the circumstances tended to kill off their livestock and reduce sowings of grain, so that food shortage resulted. This shortage, over which The Colonist gloats with unconcealed glee, was not allowed to fall on the loyal workers or their children, but on the White Russians who were sabotaging the plan of production. As Mr. Griffin of The Toronto Star, records in his interesting book: "I thought these Russians delightful people. The children everywhere looked well, sturdy and fit as the general run of our children, possibly sturdier. I have never noticed bowed legs or any other signs of rickets." Griffin and Cromie (of The Vancouver Sun) both state that the workers have "as much as they need to eat at reasonable prices."

Russia has now been able to turn to the establishment of the light or drygoods industries, and with a record harvest this year that will leave a surplus of seventy-five million bushels of wheat available for export (much to Mr. Bennett's annoyance) the food problem is now solved.

Russia's steady increase in industrial production is proved by the following figures from the Westminster Bank Review for May, 1933, as prepared by the League of Nations economic and financial section.

Taking the year 1929 as 100, the yearly averages are:

	1925	1926	1927	1928	1929	1930	1931	1932
Russia	43	58	67	81	100	122	136	145
U.S.A.	88	91	90	94	100	81	69	53
Great Britain	87	68	97	93	100	89	76	77
France	78	90	79	91	100	101	89	68
Germany	78	75	96	99	100	82	68	56

In other words, while Russia shows a gain of 178 per cent over the two 1925-1929 and 1929-1932 periods, all the others show losses. France of 4 per cent, Great Britain 8 per cent, Germany 16 per cent, and the U.S.A 33 per cent. Coming to percentage of world production, we find that Russia has since 1928 advanced from fifth to second place. Her percentage for 1928 was 4.7, and for 1932 was 14.9, overtaking Great Britain, which now has 11.2, Germany 8.9 and France 7.

As the Westminster Bank remarks, "Russia has made a striking advance, and on the basis of the official figures, now ranks as the second industrial nation." The advance "has been continuous in Russia," and in Russia alone. Further, Russia, and Russia alone, is able to find work for all, and has no unemployment problem.

I would next quote the testimony of M. Herriot, famous French Foreign Minister, as quoted in the London Times, Sept. 21, 1933. "M. Herriot describes his experiences in his recent tour of Russia as follows: The people were making a prodigious effort. He had especially noted great educational efforts. He had seen wonderful towns, such as Harkoff, which he considered one of the finest in Europe. The town-planning of Harkoff might serve as a model to any country. In the Ukraine, which had been reported as suffering from a grain scarcity, he had seen nothing but prosperity, though he was taken at his own request to the reported famine areas. Speaking dispassionately he considered that Soviet Russia was on the way to prosperity comparable with that of the U.S.A. The country had equipment, raw materials and men, and was adapting them to its needs."

Wall Street's leading journal, "The Annalist," admits that Russia is now becoming efficient, and will be a serious rival in world markets. Mr. Sherover, in "Current History," states: "Under the first five-year plan, Russia more than doubled her industrial production, and rose from fifth to second place in industrial output among the nations of the world. She maintains an unblemished record for punctual payment of her credits."

Mr. Griffin, in "The Soviet Scene (1932), states: "In considering Soviet social and economic achievements it is necessary to remember that these have been built up, not merely on a basis of backward, almost illiterate citizenship, but in the immediate wake of revolution, civil war, famine and hardship. History shows that the American Civil War wrecked the Southern States for a long generation, if they have ever really recovered, and that it was a long time before the United States, generally, was able to gird up its loins for its subsequent development. But in Russia there has been the actual immediate setting up of a new social system and of a policy of industrial building that, in view of the background, is nothing short of astounding." Again the Capitalist Republican Calvin Hoover, in "The Economic Life of Soviet Russia," is reluctantly forced to admit that by 1940 the standard of living of the Russian masses "will compare favorably with that of the more poorly paid workers elsewhere," and that "unless, in the meantime, underconsumption and unemployment can be prevented and the standard of our workers materially raised, the world revolution will begin to make rapid strides."

Finally Mr. Robert Cromie in The Vancouver Sun testifies "Russia has made the grade. Her success is now assured, and her people from now on will enjoy a boom similar to those in western Canada, Japan and California, only on a larger scale You and I may not agree with the methods Russia used, but can any reasonable person question the results? We have not yet begun to study and grasp the facts of technology, the ability of power and machinery to turn out goods. We have not yet begun to think, let alone to consider the new economy that is necessary to equitably divide the small amount of work and large amount of leisure that this vast mechanical production has brought about. And we have not yet even approached the new social ideals of work and leisure that are necessary to keep our people of North America busy and happy." How can our deluded citizens hope to do so, when in spite of such indisputable evidence, their minds are inflamed by insensate vituperation of a newspaper, and the vendetta of a cleric, envenomed against a country that does not permit the joyous spring-time of its youth to be darkened by the horrors of the Calvinist's Hell.

No fair-minded, intelligent person, after reading the chapter on Russian prisons in Griffin's "Soviet Scene," will ever be fooled by what Upton Sinclair has rightly stigmatized as "the greatest campaign of falsehood in all history."

An examination of Will Durant's "Tragedy of Russia" indicates the modus operandi of "the sycophants of capitalism." Out of its 164 pages, about 130 pages are not Durant's impressions at all, but paraphrases from works of Siebert, Chamberlain, Eckhardt, Levine, Calvin Hoover, Friedman and others. His flying visit simply added a pretence of "authenticity" to the dish. It would take a volume to pin down all the misstatements, contradictions, irrelevances and downright prevarications piled up in this little book.

A Russian fable tells of a boy whose pig managed to enter a castle. When it emerged, the boy inquired what it had seen, for he had heard that the castle was full of beautiful things. But the pig replied, "I didn't see any beautiful things. It rooted around everywhere looking for garbage, and I didn't find enough of that." And the moral of the story is that collectors of garbage can find it anywhere, and that there are horrors aplenty in our own fair province, and no need to invent fictitious ones about far-off Russia.

And so the paid sycophants of capitalism, and the bigots of clericalism curse and condemn, while Rhadamanthus appraises the record with lenient eyes, as the Immortals look down from Olympus to behold a vigorous nation new born, in a world dying because it has failed to learn that the Fatherhood of God involves the Brotherhood of Man.

LEGION TO HOLD ARMISTICE BALL

Big Event at Shrine Auditorium on Friday, Nov. 10

As the date is approaching of the Armistice ball in the Shrine Auditorium on Friday evening, November 10, under the auspices of the Victoria and District Council of the Canadian Legion, the committee desires to invite to the attention of those intending to purchase tickets, as the supply of tickets is limited, that they be bought before the day of the ball.

A popular local orchestra which has been engaged will be presenting all the latest dance numbers, in addition to certain features which were well known during the Great War.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the ball is very gratified at some of the letters received from people who will patronize the affair, stating that they have not forgotten what is yet owing to the ex-servicemen for their sacrifices during the war.

LACQUERED WIGS ARE LATEST

Those slick movie make-up masters of Hollywood have gone one step slicker. The newest art—and it is a sensation with filmdom's fair ones—is varnished hair. Keen as they are about the new fashion, Hollywood stars are not yet shellacking their own tresses. A lacquered wig does the trick—and you can pick your color. Gay Crowd Attended Hallowe'en Cabaret

Opening Cabaret Dance of Season at Empress Hotel Was Colorful Affair

Variety Provided By Clever Artists Appearing in Exceptional Novelty Turns

A gay throng of dancers comfortably filled the crystal ballroom of the Empress Hotel last night for the opening cabaret of the season in celebration of Hallowe'en.

The affair was staged in a festive setting with orange and black predominating, and the seasonal spooks, black cats and skeletons hovering in the background. The great chandeliers of the ballroom were festooned with giant orange and black shades, which hung like blimps from a crystal sky. Special lighting effects were introduced. The supper tables were decorated with streamers of orange and black crepe paper and centred with bowls of French and South African marigolds. The menu cards contributed to the Hallowe'en motif.

William Tickle's augmented orchestra occupied the orchestra dais, and introduced the very latest hits in dance numbers.

CLEVER TURNS

The cabaret turns were excellently presented by students of the Florence Clough school of dancing, each number being enthusiastically encored by the guests seated at the tables.

Miss "Dudie" McAlpine and Miss Mary Gootenka, appearing in striking orange velvet overalls and white silk blouses with huge orange organdie bows at the neck, gave a clever tap dance.

Misses Thelma Stratford and Kathleen Gregson, in abbreviated silver and blue costumes, were the principals in the "Slave Adagio," assisted by Messrs. Dan Plater, James Watt, Jack Fermento and Alfred Francis, wearing orange blouses and dark blue cords.

Perhaps the most artistic number of the evening was the interpretation of the "Valse Plastique," by Miss Stratford, with Mr. Plater as her partner. Miss Stratford, in a transparent frock of pale blue point d'esprit, trimmed with ruffles of mauve taffeta and a taffeta bodice, gave a finished exhibition of the toe ballet. Mr. Plater's costume harmonized with the blue and mauve ensemble. The turn was vociferously received and the couple responded with an encore.

The final number represented the spirit of Hallowe'en in which a chorus of eight in gay-colored costumes edged with black marabou, danced to the musical theme, "I'm Not Afraid of the Big, Bad Wolf." The girls taking part in this number were the Misses Thelma Stratford, Kathleen Gregson, Hilda Jacques, Arlee Lister, Lulu Bond, Kathleen Mann, Davida Webb and Isabel McAlpine.

Among the many dancers were: Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Mallek, Miss Hilda Chapman, Miss Helen Stewart, Miss Frances Patton, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Littler-Jones, Miss Hilda Langton, Mr. G. Langton, Messrs. About fifty guests danced to the strains of Fred Pitt's three-piece orchestra. Several novelty dances were enjoyed, the balloon dance being won by Miss Jean Newcomb and Mr. Jack Cullingford. At 11 o'clock the buffet supper was served from a prettily decorated table centred with the birthday cake. Pastel-shaded candles in silver sconces and shaded flowers added to the attractiveness of the table. Mr. L. M. Corke proposed the toast to the young hostess. Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

When the baby is deprived of the joys and advantages of breast feeding and his nourishment furnished by bottle alone, it is essential that the bottle feedings be given serious consideration.

WORST METHOD

It is not enough to warm the bottle and prop it under baby's ear with a towel, hoping that if he strains his neck sideways and keeps his mouth on the nipple the milk will run down hill acceptably. No worse method of feeding could be imagined, but too many mothers are guilty of just that careless, thoughtless and uncomfortable way of offering baby his meal.

The baby who is being bottle fed should be held on the mother's lap in about the same position as if he were being breast fed. The bottle should be tipped at an angle which keeps it constantly full of milk and not a mixture of milk and air. If the nipple collapses, lift the edge and let a rush of air puff it to its normal shape again. When the baby has swallowed several ounces of milk, remove the bottle and let him rest. It is desirable to change his position, so that he may belch comfortably. Otherwise he may be half strangled with air and unable to take more milk until relieved of it. He cannot belch while he lies flat on his back.

GENTLE PATS

At the end of the meal he should be lifted up and held over the mother's shoulder, while she pats his back very gently. A robust pat and too much activity might encourage vomiting. This ceremony is especially important with the last meal at night, when so often baby is put down directly after a feeding and allowed to cry loudly from discomfort, pain, and complete inability to change his position under a load of covers.

Mothers willingly give up time to nurse the baby but resent being called upon to spare it when he is bottle fed. They feel that the baby can get milk from a bottle without much help. Small babies can not feed themselves slowly enough or eat in comfort when their necks are strained out of position, the bottle falling into their noses, and the milk running out in choking streams. Do take time to help them.

Trustee Jeune spoke on matters relating to school affairs in Saanich and advocated three years of free tuition in the high schools, after which the pupil desiring further education would be charged a fee of $90 per annum.

If Your Husband Died Suddenly Would You Be Tried For Murder?

True Story Magazine Now to Publish the Famous Jessie Costello Story Written by Herself

The new True Story Magazine will be out Friday. It will contain what is probably the strangest True Story ever published. Jessie Costello, who was tried for the murder of her husband and acquitted by a jury, now tells for the first time her own true story of the events leading up to that trial.

In this strange true story, Jessie Costello denies her guilt, but unwittingly again tries herself. No stranger human document has ever come to our editorial desks. She says she is not guilty. The jury said she was not guilty. When you read her story you will feel that she was not guilty. And yet——.

All of a sudden, the impression sweeps over you that the most trivial, insignificant acts of your life can be magnified into terrible importance when some major tragedy occurs.

This is a great true story to get hold of. You may have read this story in the newspapers, but Jessie Costello, herself, is writing this story. She is telling the whole dramatic story for the first time, and these are the inside facts. Newspapers would call it a scoop. For Jessie Costello, a totally unimportant woman, tried in a little town in Massachusetts, made the front page of nearly every paper in America.

But even that is not the reason why True Story Magazine has selected this manuscript.

The true reason is that there are thirty million married women in America who might have committed the same trivial follies or been moved to the same little kindnesses. And any one of whom on this basis alone might very well find herself in jail for five months and tried for murder if her husband were found dead with poison in his stomach.

It makes one stop and think. True Story Magazine will be out Friday. Don't miss it.

Man With a Thousand Masks

By Augustus Muir

The smile went from the detectives grey eyes.

"Can you describe him. Miss Marlowe?"

Elizabeth hesitated.

"He's staying in the hotel," she said.

She saw her questioner's lips harden slightly.

"I suppose you could point him out to me?"

The girl's glance fell.

"I've already mentioned him. It was Mr. Alan Gilmour."

CHAPTER X

At this, Sir Richard Templeton half rose from his chair. He stared at her in surprise, then a deep frown gathered on his forehead.

"I don't understand," he said sharply. "Do you mean that you dined and went to the theatre with a complete stranger from this hotel?"

In mortification she bowed her head.

"Will you please answer me?" cried Sir Richard.

There was silence: then suddenly the girl looked up, and her slender figure stiffened.

"Yes!"

"With a perfect stranger?" he expostulated.

"I'm not ashamed of it." There was a flash of defiance in her voice as she faced her employer. "Do you imagine I'd have gone out with him if I'd seen that he wasn't a gentleman?"

"That he was strange to you is sufficient," declared the barrister sternly, and turned away.

Inspector Tripp leaned forward.

"Perhaps you'd better tell me about it," he said gently. "I've no doubt it came about in a simple way. An impulse, perhaps?"

She looked into his sympathetic eyes.

"Yes—an impulse," she said eagerly. I've never done such a thing in my life before. It was indiscreet of me, but I thought there was no harm in it."

"Youthful high spirits," murmured Tripp, leaning back in his chair, his eyes half closed. "He came into your office next door?"

"Yes."

"And Sir Richard was out at the time?"

"He'd just gone. It was 5 o'clock."

There was a pause, and then the detective's voice snapped out like a pistol-shot:

"Was the man in this room, Miss Marlowe?"

His grey eyes had opened wide, and they were as hard as flint.

"Certainly not to my knowledge," said Elizabeth.

Inspector Tripp rose to his feet.

"That's all I propose to ask you at present, Miss Marlowe. Many thanks."

He opened the door for her to pass through into her room, and then looked across at the barrister.

"What do you make of it, Tripp?" exclaimed Templeton. "Who is this fellow Gilmour?"

"That," said the detective, "is what I now intend to find out. May I use your telephone? I want to get the number of his room."

As he sat with the receiver to his ear, he looked at the faded photograph on the desk. It had lain there throughout the interview with Elizabeth Marlowe, and a puzzled expression came into his eyes as he recalled how her glance had so often strayed back to it. What queer fascination, he wondered, could this photograph have for Sir Richard Templeton's secretary?

"Mr. Alan Gilmour?" asked Chief Inspector Tripp, when the bedroom door was opened in answer to his knock.

"Yes, I'm Gilmour! What can I do for you, sir?"

Inspector Tripp ran his eye over the young man in the dark blue dressing gown. His figure was tall and lean, his face bronzed; he had crisp fair hair and laughing blue eyes; his smile was pleasant, revealing strong white teeth; and there was something square and rugged about the cut of his jaw. This was scarcely the type of man that Tripp had expected to see, but, nevertheless, he decided to go carefully.

"Here is my card," he said. "May I have a few minutes' talk with you, Mr. Gilmour?"

The young man gave a whistle.

"Scotland Yard? Sounds bad! Well, at least I haven't been breaking the speed limit," he smiled, "because I haven't even got a car. Come in, Mr. Tripp."

He waved his hand across the bedroom to the armchairs beside the open window.

"Let's sit down over there. Cigarette—or 'beccy? I've just this minute finished brekker, you'll notice." He pointed to the tray containing the demolished remains of breakfast. "But it's my first morning back in London, and I've got nothing particular to do except enjoy myself."

He lit the pipe he had been filling from the armchair, and looked expectantly across at the detective.

"I believe you took Miss Elizabeth Marlowe out to dinner last night?" queried Tripp abruptly.

"Correct first go?" nodded Alan, ramming the tobacco more tightly into his pipe and relighting it.

"You have never met her before?"

"Wrong," said Alan Gilmour. "I'd met her twice—yesterday afternoon. But hold on, Mr."—he glanced at the detective's card on the small table in front of him—"Mr. Tripp. Before we go any further, what's the idea?"

"A perfectly simple one. Something rather unusual happened in this hotel last night, Mr. Gilmour, and it is my duty to make inquiries."

"Unusual? You mean a burglary or——"

"Yes, a burglary. It took place in the the room immediately below—one of those occupied by Sir Richard Templeton. Anyone who entered Sir Richard's suite yesterday must naturally be under a certain suspicion—particularly if he's a stranger. I suggest it would save time if you let me have some details about yourself."

"That's easy enough," said Alan Gilmour, with a laugh, "for there isn't much to tell."

When he had finished his brief recital, the detective gave a friendly nod.

"I'm satisfied. As a matter of routine, I must, of course, telephone the P. & O. Company, also your bank to check your statements. You won't object to that? Thank you. Both offices should be open by now. May I put through the calls straight away?"

He pointed to the telephone instrument on the small table beside the bed.

"Please do—by all means!"

Gilmour smoked at the window until the detective finally put down the receiver and came over to him with a smile.

"If it hadn't happened that you took Miss Marlowe out to dinner last night, believe me, you'd never had to submit to this indignity, Mr. Gilmour!"

"It was worth it," said the other, with quite a chuckle. "I don't know if you've spoken to Miss Marlowe, but personally, I happen to think—well rather highly of her."

"She's certainly beautiful to look at," admitted Chief Inspector Tripp. "Yes, extremely so."

Something in the detective's tone made Gilmour glance more keenly at him.

"She's as straight as a die, Inspector!" he burst out. "I'd stake anything on it."

Inspector Tripp lay back in his chair and looked across at the young man's eager blue eyes. He was a shrewd, rapid reader of character, and he now confessed to himself that he had taken to Alan Gilmour at first sight. Their brief talk had merely confirmed his first impression. Here, he knew very well, was a man he could trust; and a sudden idea struck him.

"If you're willing, Mr. Gilmour," he said slowly. "I think you might be of very considerable help to me."

"In what way?"

"How long do you intend to stop at this hotel?"

"A week or so. Until I get fed up with it. My plans are quite indefinite."

Tripp tapped his fingers pensively on his knees. Then he said slowly:

"Would you be inclined to stay on even longer than that—if, say, you were finding it intensely interesting?"

"I think so. Why not? But—what's the notion?"

"I'm inclined, Mr. Gilmour, to take you—just a little way—into my confidence. Thanks—I have matches." He lit his pipe and looked thoughtfully across the breakfast-tray at the young man in the armchair. "Ever heard of anybody called Lord John?"

"Considering one can't open a newspaper without——"

"Right," said Tripp shortly. "He's living in this hotel."

Gilmour gave a low whistle.

"He is, by Jove? It looks as if I'd chosen a lively spot!"

"You have. It may possibly become livelier yet in the next few days."

He paused, and, as a floor-valet entered with freshly pressed clothes over his arm, he quickly removed from the table the card which bore his name and rank.

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1933

Adverse planetary aspects dominate to-day, according to astrology. It is a time for business and professional men to watch their steps.

Workers may be restless and discontented under this rule of the stars, which encourages concentration on self.

Agriculturists are subject to a sway that tends to make them impatient and lacking in foresight, the seers declare.

While this configuration continues hasty action and ill-considered comment should be avoided by persons in every walk of life, astrologers warn.

The sun now passes the constellation of Libra and brings to intense concern price adjustments of many sorts. Reparations and international debts will be much discussed.

Neptune is in a place that should bring about a clearer vision regarding national problems of many sorts. Better understanding of governmental policies is presaged.

Good news from across the seas is prognosticated for this month, when conferences will bring about international adjustments of various sorts, it is forecast.

Russia now comes under a planetary rule making for renewed world interest in Soviet policies. Stirring events within the nation are indicated.

France is to have many anxieties and to make many enemies as the winter advances. Malefic aspects may affect trade and commerce.

Warning is given that wars, civil and international, may be expected on the planet Earth, which boasts of many foolish inhabitants.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of slow progress, owing to unexpected obstacles, but it may be unusually successful on the whole.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly thoughtful and intelligent. Subjects of this sign usually are both lucky and unlucky, for they experience great changes in their lives.

James K. Polk, 1795, and Warren G. Harding, two Presidents of the United States, were born on this day. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Tyrone Power, 1797, Irish actor, and Marie Antoinette, 1755, Queen of France.

Uncle Wiggily's Big Bird

(By HOWARD R. GARIS).

The day after the night of Hallowe'en, when he gave the funny party, Uncle Wiggily wanted a new adventure so he said to his wife:

"I am going to hop out and see what happens."

"I hope nothing happens to you," spoke Mrs. Longears.

"So do I," squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"How could anything happen to me?" asked Uncle Wiggily with a brave twinkle of his pink nose.

"You forget," said his wife, kindly, "that at the party last night you wouldn't let in the Fox, the Wolf and the Bob Cat."

"Indeed, I wouldn't let them in!" said Mr. Longears. "Have those Bad Chaps at my Hallowe'en party! Never!"

"Well," said his wife, "they may be a bit angry at you and be waiting to make something happen if you go out now adventuring."

Who are you?

"I'll be careful," promised Mr. Longears. "Anyhow, I'll take this with me to scare away the Bad Chaps." He picked up Baby Bunty's water pistol, which he loaded at Nurse Jane's kitchen sink, and then he hopped out of his hollow stump bungalow.

"Good luck!" wished Nurse Jane, waving her dishrag as the bunny gentleman hopped away.

"Thank you," he answered, as he put on his red cap, for he had bought a red cap, as had fat Mr. Twistytail, the pig gentleman.

Uncle Wiggily hopped up hill and down hill, over the fields and through the woods. In his pocket he had Baby Bunty's water pistol and he was all ready to squirt it at the Fox, the Wolf or the Bob Cat if he saw either of those Bad Chaps.

Uncle Wiggily reached the top of the hill without anything happening except that he slipped and fell and sat down heavily in a grassy place. Everything would have been all right except that Mr. Longears sat down on the water pistol which was in his pocket.

And as soon as he sat on it that squeezed the trigger and that pressed on the rubber ball inside and a lot of water squirted down the rabbit gentleman's leg.

"Oh, dear! I've shot myself!" he laughed as he hopped himself up and found a spring of water where he again filled the pistol ready for the Bad Chaps.

On up the hill hopped the rabbit gentleman and pretty soon he saw a large hole, like a little cave, or a den, near where a clump of bushes grew on the side of the hill.

"I wonder who lives in that hole?" said Uncle Wiggily. "Maybe it has an adventure in it. I'll sit here and wait until the adventure comes out and then I won't have to chase it."

So with his loaded water pistol in his pocket, and taking care not to sit on it again, Uncle Wiggily waited beside the hole. All of a sudden a voice said:

"Hello!"

"Hello!" answered Mr. Longears before he thought. Then he happened to remember that perhaps it might be a Bad Chap and he looked around at the hole. But nothing came out of it and the bunny gentleman was thinking perhaps he was dreaming of hearing a voice, when, all of a sudden his red cap was snatched right off his head.

"Hi, there! Who's doing that?" asked the rabbit gentleman. "No tricks, now! Who took my red cap?"

"I did," answered a voice.

"Who are you?" asked the bunny.

"I am a bird," was the answer, and out of the hole in the hill stalked a big turkey. In his beak was the rabbit's red cap.

"Well, you certainly are a big bird!" said Uncle Wiggily with a laugh. "I have often heard of you Thanksgiving turkeys called birds, but I had forgotten about it. But what are you doing here in this hole and why did you snatch off my red cap."

"I'll answer that last question first," said the big bird turkey. "I looked out, and, seeing a patch of red, I thought you were another turkey come to keep me company. So I said 'hello' and when you answered I knew you were not a bird. You see, I mistook your red cap for the red dingle-dangle I wear over my beak," and the turkey gobbler shook his head until the dingle-dangle flipped and flopped. "I hope you will excuse me," gobbled the big bird.

"Oh, it's quite all right," said Mr. Longears. "But why are you hiding in this hole?"

"Come inside and I'll tell you the secret," gobbled the turkey. So Mr. Longears went in and something happened next. I'll tell you about it tomorrow when the story will be Uncle Wiggily's water pistol.

And I hope you can give the coal shovel a lollypop to play with so it won't get all dirt playing with the cake of soap.

EGGLESS RECIPES FOR PUDDING DESSERTS

Just to show old madam Biddy-hen that we can have good puddings without her eggs, here are some eggless recipes.

When we serve these desserts we must keep in mind that they do not contain the nourishment found in a pudding made light and rich with eggs and we must plan the whole meal with this thought uppermost. However, these puddings do furnish the sweetness wanted by most of us and add bulk to the diet.

The sauce used with the pudding always adds much. Whipped cream is good on any pudding hot or cold. Hard sauce is made for a hot pudding which is not too rich to start with and a fruit sauce improves many rich, sweet puddings by its contrasting flavor and lack of butter or cream.

The first recipe is for a simple delicious pudding that can be served with any of the sauces mentioned.

STEAMED GRAHAM PUDDING

Three tablespoons butter or other shortening, 1-2 cup molasses, 1-2 cup sweet milk, 1-2 cup white flour, 1 1-4 cup graham flour, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon each cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves, 1-2 pound dates stoned and chopped.

Melt shortening and beat in molasses. Mix and sift flour, soda, spices and salt. Add to first mixture. Add milk and beat until smooth. Add graham flour and dates and mix thoroughly. Turn into a buttered mold, cover and steam two and one-half hours. Serve warm with whipped cream, hard sauce or lemon sauce. This recipe will make six large servings or eight medium sized ones. The puddings can be reheated and used several days later if only half is used. Steam one-half hour to reheat.

Suet puddings are good in cold weather and while rich have the advantage of being easily digested, comparatively speaking. Well-cooked suet is considered an easily digested fat.

SUET PUDDING

One cup chopped suet, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup sweet milk, 3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teapoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 cup seeded and chopped raisins.

The suet must be chopped very fine and worked with a wooden spoon or fork until creamy. Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add molasses and milk to suet. Mix thoroughly. Add flour, soda, salt and spices sifted several times. Add raisins before blending ingredients. Mix thoroughly and turn into a well buttered mold. Steam two and one-half hours. Serve hot with hard sauce or lemon sauce.

Luncheon — Macaroni and beef, hearts of lettuce with chiffonade dressing, toasted muffins, apple sauce, milk, tea.

What Can A Woman Do?

Asks: When Husband Fails Her At 50?

Half a Loaf Is Better Than No Bread, Dorothy Dix Warns Wives Whose Husbands Stray After Years of Happy Living—Divorce Will Result in Life Wholly Without Meaning

WHAT is the wife to do whose husband at middle age suddenly begins philandering, or falls into the hands of a gold digger? It is one of the most heartbreaking and insoluble problems in the world and it loses nothing of its pathos by being so common. To every woman whose life has been bound up in her husband's for thirty or forty years, and who has believed in him and trusted him almost as implicitly as she has God Himself, it is as much of a tragedy to find herself betrayed as if it had never happened before.

I get thousands upon thousands of letters every year from these pitiful, bewildered women, who are the victims of their husbands' weakness, who ask the same question about what they shall do, and who tell the same story.

A poor boy and girl marry on a shoestring, but they have love and youth and energy and ambition, and they work and struggle and strive and achieve together. No labor is too hard for the wife to perform. No sacrifice too great for her to make. But she does it gladly because she is helping her husband and they are happy together, happy in their children and in a common aim and object in life and in planning the things they will do when they have made their fortune.

Then comes middle age and with it only too often the wreck of the woman's world, and the fortune that she has worked so hard to help her husband accumulate becomes her undoing. For with leisure the man, who has been too busy to think about anything else except his career, begins having affairs with women and the possession of money makes him the prey of every designing vamp.

Inevitably the wife comes to know of her husband's unfaithfulness. Sometimes he brutally tells her that he is tired of her and wants to be rid of her and marry another woman. Just as often he tells her that he loves her still and that she is the only woman in the world to him. But in either case the wife knows that in his heart he has been unfaithful to her, that he has killed their love, that they can never be happy in the old way together again, and that no miracle can restore her lost faith in him.

It is then in her misery that she asks: What shall I do? Shall I get a divorce, or endure this torture? And the question is an economic as well as a sentimental one. For all of the fruits of the toil of the woman's life have gone into the making of her husband's prosperity, and if it is a torture to a woman to see another woman take her place in her husband's heart, it is no less a grinding torment to her to see another woman living in the house and rolling around in the limousine that her work and penny-pinching have helped pay for.

To me it seems that there are three cardinal points that a woman should consider at such a time. The first, of course, is whether there are young children or not. If there are, and her husband is endurable at all, and many philanderers are as agreeable at home as they are abroad, then for the sake of the children she should keep her home together at any cost to herself. That is, provided she has enough strength of character to throw a veil over her husband's shortcomings that will hide them from his children, and to refrain from reproaching him with them. Better one parent or no parent at all for children than a father and mother who are perpetually quarreling and hurling insults at each other.

Secondly, she should take into consideration her husband's attitude on the subject. If a man has really ceased to love his wife and has fallen in love with another woman, then there is nothing that the wife can do in dignity and decency but to give him a divorce and let him marry the woman who can give him the happiness that she cannot.

And right here the wife should try to distinguish between love and infatuation on her husband's part. It is one thing for him to have really found his mate in some woman of suitable years and intelligence and character and position, and another thing for him to imagine himself in love with some little flibberty-gibbet, young enough to be his granddaughter, who only wants to marry him for the luxuries he can give her. The wife who refuses her husband a divorce to make a marriage that she knows will bring ruin upon him does him a kindness he does not deserve, but for which he is eternally grateful after he wakes up from his pipe dream that he was a boy again and too young for his middle-aged wife.

The wife should also take into consideration her husband's age, and that around fifty a man is very prone to have an attack of indiscretion. Perhaps it is the last flare-up of youth, or he hears the last call to the dining-car of sentiment, but at any rate it is then that the old yokemate who has pulled steadily in double harness for twenty-five or thirty years is likely to go suddenly coltish and kick over the traces.

After a wife has loved her husband for thirty or forty years he has become as much a part of her as her own body, and if she divorces him it leaves her as maimed as if she had lopped off an arm or a leg. She has not had a thought that hasn't centred around him, nor a hope nor an aspiration that was not for him. She has not cooked a meal that was not built around what he liked to eat, and life has no meaning to her without him. So nine times out of ten the woman with a truant husband is happier if she can bring herself to forgive and forget.

True, things will never be the same again. There will always be bitterness in her heart and a taste of aloes in her mouth, but she will have done what could be done to salvage a bad situation. DOROTHY DIX.

Wonder Works of Long Ago

IN BABYLONIA

Northwest of the Persian gulf is a region known as Mesopotamia, "the Land Between the Rivers." It has an area of about 55,000 square miles, and lies between the Tigreas and Euphrates rivers.

Ruins of Temple of Marduk.

A general view of this land to-day would not make a visitor think it worth much study. It is, in large part, a sandy waste; but look closer and you shall see reasons to call it important. There, fully 7,000 years ago, lived pioneers of human thought, and they used canals and reservoirs to make the country bloom in a way it does not bloom at present.

In ancient times, the region was known as Babylonia; and it shares with Egypt the honor of being the first to have a system of writing. Which really was "first," we do not know; and it is that we shall never know.

Some scholars look upon Egypt as the land where writing was known at the earliest date; but others set forth the claims of Babylonia.

Most important of the cities in the land, in fact largest of all ancient cities of its time, was Babylon. It was built beside the Euphrates river, and round it was a high wall of great thickness.

Babylon was hardly more than a dim memory of ancient glory when scientists first visited the place where it had stood. Digging in sand and rubbish, they uncovered the remains of a mighty city. They came upon partly-destroyed palace and temple walls, and they located hundreds of clay tablets bearing strange writing.

The writing on the tablets was translated.

Among the ruins were walls of the temple of Marduk. The walls were formed of bricks, and were decorated with images of animals.

Who was Marduk? The clay tablets tell us that he was the mighty god of Babylonia, lord of the sun and ruler of all.

Another high figure in Babylonian religion was the goddess Ishtar, the "Earth Mother." In some legends, she was spoken of as the daughter of Sin, the wise moon-god; but elsewhere it is told that she was the child of the Sky.

Greatest of the wonder works in Babylon were the Hanging Gardens. These were terraces (flat places covered with flowers, bushes and trees) on the sides of a man-made hill. It is believed that the hill was set up to please the wife of a Babylonian king.

The ruins of the Hanging Gardens are to be seen to-day.

Frank Stirling Dies in New York

Associated Press

Utica, N.Y., Nov. 1.—Capt. Frank Stirling, fifty-three, soldier and actor, died here yesterday evening after a long illness. Although a graduate of Oxford University, he started to work selling programmes for a theatre at Durban, South Africa. He fought in the Boer War and was promoted to the rank of captain.

He was awarded both the Victoria Cross and the Edward VII Medal and was transferred to India. He then crossed to Australia and went on the stage in Melbourne with J. C. Williamson, with whom he was associated for eleven years.

He came to New York after conducting a moving picture house in New Zealand, and appeared in several Broadway hits. He was born in Lucknow, India, September 4, 1880.

WILL BE SENTENCED

Shanghai, Nov. 1 (Associated Press)—Bert Hall, United States aviator and former aeronautics instructor for the Chinese Government at Nanking, will be sentenced Friday for engaging in illegal importation of firearms into China for sale to military forces. He pleaded guilty yesterday.

A CHILD IS THE BUD THAT BECOMES a full grown tree, known as manhood or womanhood. Instill into that conscious bud pessimism, fear and low ideals and life's climatic conditions will be hard to breast, requiring more than our coarse whole wheat bread (free from molasses, sugar or white flour) or Dr. Jackson's Roman Meal bread and muffins to lift it on to the road to Wellville. Start early—build a healthy body and a progressive mind, and you will find this old world full of health, happiness and prosperity. Our quality foods are good for young or old, if they but do their part. Golden Loaf Bakery, 711 Fort St.

"Why I Will Vote Liberal"

Definite Action Toward Recovery Promised When Pattullo Takes Office, Says W. T. Straith at Sidney; Likened to Move in United States With Change of Government.

Speaking at Sidney yesterday evening, W. T. Straith, of Victoria, offered convincing reasons why the electors of British Columbia should cast their votes in favor of Liberal candidates when they go to polls to-morrow.

Mr. Straith discussed the Liberal attitude toward various problems confronting the province to-day in comparison to that of other groups and likened the situation to that of the United States emerging from the slow-moving administration of President Hoover to the action-getting, rapidly-moving government of President Roosevelt. British Columbians were entitled to a "new deal" and they should get it, he said.

He opened his remarks with a tribute to the late W. J. Bowser, K.C.

Mr. Straith argued the election issues from an impartial point of view, forming the conclusion that the Liberal party would be the best for the province as a whole.

"The platform of the Liberal Party appealed to me. First of all it is the only party standing as a united group with an official leader.

"When people used the cry, "away with party government," they did not mean that, but meant "away with partizanship in government." Proper party government was constituted of a strong government with a strong opposition. The Liberal party was the only one offering this sort of government in the present election, he said.

STABLE LEADERSHIP

"No matter what you do, you will have a party government after November 2. There will be a government on one side and an opposition on the other. But what we do want is a government with well-defined policies which it will put into effect."

British Columbia did not want a government which might change its leader from day to day because of disagreement of little coteries within itself, such as would be the case if the people elected various candidates at random.

Secondly, said Mr. Straith, people of B.C. are looking for a "new deal." While this phrase seemed outworn, it was one which could not be used enough in these times. The Liberal policies offered such progressive movement.

The Liberal policy, he continued, was to overhaul the ship of state, put a new captain in command, a new crew in charge, and steer a straight course forward into untroubled waters.

"Liberal thought will adhere to the good things of the past and preserve them, but it will also plan its future action according to the needs of the people," he said. "For instance, in the United States, Roosevelt is doing something for the people of that country. He has studied their needs and is attempting, by various methods, to meet the conditions. That is the sort of policy we will expect from Mr. Pattullo, at a time when we have been suffering from a sort of stagnation."

ACTION PROMISED

"When Mr. Pattullo takes office he will say, 'Here is what we're going to do, and we're going to start to-day.' That is what Mr. Roosevelt did and it is what we will expect Mr. Pattullo to do. And he is now ready to go ahead."

Mr. Straith likened planks in the Liberal platform to recovery moves in the United States; quoting the proposal for an economic council to advise the government; to solve problems of consumption and marketing.

He outlined the Liberal attitude on social legislation. Such acts as old age pensions, mothers' pensions, workmen's compensation and so forth were brought into effect to meet the needs of the people. That was Liberal thought, based upon humanitarian principles.

The Conservative government, on the other hand, had, at heart, always been a government for the privileged classes. As soon as it came into power it had maligned the social legislation as too paternal.

Liberal standards would not support taxation on meagre earnings, he said, instancing the case of the Jones one per cent tax being deducted from relief cheques under the present government. A Liberal government would never have done such a thing.

The new social legislation planned by the Liberals was state health insurance, to which the party was pledged by its platform.

The Liberals were endeavoring to get away from partizanship in government, Mr. Straith continued. Wasteful government resulted from partizanship. To avoid this sort of thing, Mr. Pattullo and his party intended to appoint a highway commission independent of parties, to supervise spending in the Public Works Department, which was the largest spending section of the government. Moreover, the Liberal platform was aimed to free the hands of individual members from caucus domination.

A PETITION OF GRIEVANCE

meeting could not very well be entertained, and urging that the request of the citizens' meeting on Sunday week be complied with.

Some further juggling over dates occurred, evidently with the idea of side-tracking this delegation, and then in Sunday's Colonist I notice that in order apparently to "dish the Whigs" the regular meeting of council for Monday night has been cancelled on the grounds "that as there is little business on the agenda" a previous arrangement to cancel the meeting was being carried out.

I think this action on the part of the council, ver provocative, Mr. Editor, and ask you kindly to give publicity to it in your paper.

POLITICS IN SAANICH

To the Editor:—Slams from Mr. Crouch can pass unheeded. He never did have a problem such as the repatriation of 12,000 returned men.

His dominance and inconsistency can only be likened to the autocracy of a Czar.

He claims he will help the farmer and the worker. He has had the chance to do so and failed.

He was going to reduce the assessment on farmers' lands one-third, the same as was done on Hudson's Bay Company's unimproved lands. He did not do so.

He put all his maintenance men on relief work.

He induced the Dominion Government to pay $2.80 in lieu of $4 on Dominion work in Saanich (Observatory Road).

On a mandate from the taxpayers to close the Health Centre, he retained the services of the doctor and nurses instead of utilising the services of the Victorian Order of Nurses; a loyal and efficient body of ladies at one-third of the cost.

High schools are the main cause of increase in taxation. Fifty years from now they will accommodate the number of pupils attending. The ratepayers voted over $70,000 for those schools, and Mr. Crouch at a joint meeting with the trustees voted for a further expenditure of $12,000 for the Mount View High School without consulting the taxpayer.

There is a surplus of over $10,000 in the water account. That could have been put to a good use. Needy families could have been provided with work to pay their taxes and other persons could have had their homes saved that were sold in the last tax sale.

A man and wife on relief in Saanich receive $2.79 per week (one day's work) for food, clothing and shelter. I see nothing humanitarian or Christian-like in his administration.

HONI SOIT QUI MALE PENSE.

TRIBUTE TO MR. RAMSAY

To the Editor:—A striking feature of this election is the splendid type of men enrolled as candidates under the Liberal banner. Mr. David Ramsay, who is running in Cowichan-Newcastle, is a shining example. A pioneer on the Saskatchewan prairie who experienced all the hardships of the homesteader of thirty-five years ago, whose door was always open and whose meagre store of supplies was always at the disposal of his neighbors, newcomers and the chance traveler. His honesty, generosity and unobtrusive charity have been his worst enemy, as far as storing up this world's goods is concerned, but has been of vital help and inspiration to countless friends and acquaintances. Mr. Ramsay has spent his leisure time in the last ten years of his life reading and studying world trade and finance. This has been purely a labor of love for his adopted country, in the hope that having an intelligent knowledge of his subject, he could influence others to sound ideas and make Canada a better country for rich and poor alike.

The people of Cowichan-Newcastle are to be congratulated in the choice of their Liberal standard-bearer. It is doubtful that there has ever been a candidate in any election in Canada with such a wide and personal experience of the problems of the people, of absolute integrity and the ability and fearlessness to fight for the rights of the people against special privilege and graft.

Mr. Ramsay's word is his bond, indeed, and if he is elected Cowichan-Newcastle will have a representative who will insist on the promises of his party being carried out to the letter or go down in the attempt.

It is often said that the best men do not enter the political arena, but in Mr. Ramsay the electors have the finest type of Canadian to vote for and the opportunity of having one of the finest representatives who has ever offered his services to British Columbia.

ADMIRER.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

To The Editor:—Re-appearing in the press of Saturday last, Mr. W. C. Moresby's letter concerning the Department of Agriculture appears to call for a reply.

My first letter was aimed to assure the readers of it that there is not duplication of services rendered by the Provincial Department of Agriculture and the Federal Department. On this point Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, Premier and Minister of Agriculture, spoke over the radio giving a full explanation of the diverse functions of the two departments. As an expert in agricultural administration he knows the facts and nothing further need be said.

The chief point sought to be impressed in my former letter was a reported pledge given by a group of Vancouver candidates to transfer the administration of the department from Victoria to the University at Vancouver. The result of such a move would be to deprive civil servants here of employment and to provide employment at the University for another group without a saving in expenditure of public money.

Figures are quoted by Mr. Moresby from the public accounts of the year ending March 31, 1932. These cover expenditures of two years ago, but there have been great changes since then.

It is a matter for surprise that Mr. Moresby did not secure access to the estimates of expenditures for the present fiscal year. He would have found there that for the work of the Department of Agriculture there has been provided $252,000 and not $400,000 as mentioned by him. Thus it will be seen that the reduction which he now suggests has already been accomplished.

Reference is made to the elimination of the services of a Minister of Agriculture by combining that office with another. This proposal has been carried out already as the Premier has assumed the work of that office in addition to his duties as Premier.

Under these circumstances it would seem that the reductions in expenditures suggested by Mr. Moresby have already been accomplished.

"STOP, LOOK AND LISTEN!"

To the Editor:—Premier Tolmie and his two ministers who stand by him, take every opportunity to tell the electors what a fine clean government the Tolmie government has been. No scandals have besmirched its fair name, etc.

Well, when the public looks back on the five years of its administration, with the payment of $25,000 to a former liquor commissioner to get out to make way for the famous three-man $30,000 board, with the pension of $350 per month for life of a perfectly satisfactory agent-general, to make way for one of its misfits at an increased salary, not to mention $4,000 per year to Mr. Coventry to sell apples in England, nor the measly $1,000 to the redoubtable Mr. Hastings for writing letters to The Colonist, buying $3,000,000 road machinery from a relative of a cabinet minister, and the placing of relations of other ministers on the public payroll, I think they (the public) will say that the five years of the Tolmie regime has been one huge failure.

Again, the premier naively states that his party is the only one which has had any experience of governing during the depression. One costly experience for this country with an increase in debt of $65,000,000 in five years. It is for the electors to decide if that kind of experience has any value.

The spectacle of Mr. Hinchliffe, standing as a Non-Partizan Unionist, etc., is rich, a minister who has been so ruthlessly partizan that the present employees in his department might aptly style themselves "Joshua's Chosen Few." However, we will leave the teachers and their friends to deal with him.

Mr. Pooley, with a unique sense of humor, states that he has taken the Provincial Police out of politics. Well, well! It is to laugh (as the French say). Will Mr. Pooley tell us how many applicants were accepted for the police since he took office, who were not directly or indirectly recommended by leading Conservatives?

They boast of the economies of the past year. But how have those economies been effected? By ruthlessly cutting the wages of the lower paid civil servants, and putting those who could least afford it on half-time. By skimping our children's education, by ruthlessly cutting grants to municipalities, and by reducing the unfortunate unemployed to a standard of living below that of a South Sea native.

However, we must credit the Tolmie government with two achievements: Making our province the laughing-stock of the whole Dominion; and effectually killing the Conservative party.

And now, Sir, it is the electors' turn. They, too, have gained experience. True at a bitter price, but perhaps more valuable because of that. It is a far cry now to those delirious days of July, 1928, when the Tolmie government waltzed into power, to the tune of "Time for a Change," led by The Daily Province's orchestra.

Is there one amongst us who would not gladly go back now to the days of the Liberal Government when even Conservatives ate regularly—and we could buy the kiddies' shoes?

However, on November 2, we will have the consolation, and satisfaction, of kicking the Tolmie Government, with its numerous variegated offshoots into that political oblivion from which they emerged.

MR. DOOLEY.

JUDGE RIDDELL'S DECISION

To the Editor:—Certain supporters of the C.C.F. have quoted from a judgment of the Honorable Mr. Justice Riddell of the Court of Appeal for Ontario, to meet the objection that a number of the planks of the C.C.F. are beyond the competence of the British Columbia Legislature to put into effect. The following is the excerpt from the judgment referred to: "The Legislature within its jurisdiction can do anything that is not naturally impossible, and it is restrained by no rule, human or divine (Riddell J. in Florence Mining Company vs. Cobalt Lake Mining Company, 1909, 18 O.L.R., 275)."

The vital and qualifying words, of course, are, "within its jurisdiction." The expression is used not in any territorial sense, but with reference to the jurisdiction of the province within those subjects allocated to the Legislatures of the provinces under the British North America Act. There should be no confusion as to this.

It is true to say that "within those subjects allocated to the Provincial Legislatures, those bodies are supreme and original in their jurisdiction and that there is nothing subsidiary or qualified in their power," but that is far from the implication intended by those to whom I have referred—i.e. that there are no limitations whatever on the provinces in respect of their legislative competence.

It is well to remember "the exclusive legislative authority" of the Parliament of Canada in such matters, as the regulation of trade and commerce, currency and coinage, banking, incorporation of banks, the issue of paper money, savings banks, bills of exchange and promissory notes, interest and legal tender.

It is also well to bear in mind the power of disallowance of provincial legislation contained in the combined effect of sections 56 and 90 of the British North America Act under which the Governor-General in Council may, as I read the statute, annul a given piece of provincial legislation within one year after receipt of an authenticated copy of the act in question.

Mr. Justice Riddell in his judgment aforementioned expressly refers to this power of disallowance.

ROBERT D. HARVEY.

"UTOPIAN SOCIALISM"

To the Editor:—With your permission I would like to offer a few remarks in reply to Mr. Luff of October 26, 1933.

I maintain that he is all mixed up and flabbergasted. Quoting from his letter of October 17, 1933, speaking of classes he says: "With abolition of all classes, the working class will step forth for the first time in history."

May I suggest to friend Luff that there cannot possibly be a single and only existing body of people defined as "working class," because class denotes quality, and quality is defined by comparison between two or more bodies. Therefore, the rich must have their poor, and heaven its hell.

Again: In Mr. Luff's later letter of the 26th instant we find, "All the C.C.F. advocate is public ownership, which means government operation of industry with regulation of working hours and wages, etc. The ownership would still remain in the hands of the capitalists as bondholders, who would receive the surplus value." In spite of the two words, "surplus value," which our theorist has purloined from Karl Marx, the above harangue that public ownership is capitalist ownership is contradictory and misleading.

As a direct proof of the true proprietorship of "public ownership," as advocated by the C.C.F. Party, I implore Mr. Luff to take a firm grip of himself and try to truly analyze the state of affairs correctly. Does the present high-powered warfare, by every possible way and means that ingenuity can devise of the capitalistic interests against the "public ownership" policy of the C.C.F. Party, suggest capitalistic unity with the C.C.F. programme? In what direction are the guns of the old political parties trained, on each other, as in the past frays, or conjointly on the C.C.F. Party and its programme?

Mr. Luff says: "My theories have been well known to my friend for the past two years." Why bring that up? "Sufficient unto the day is the evil therof." "My theories: That make the efforts of W. Morris's "News from Nowhere" and Bellamy's "Looking Backward" look like "also rans." "My theories" that vision all mankind passing through a long dormant process of theoretical longing and waiting and hoping, for the many sided, human family with all its inherent individualism and temperaments to finally become something without practical effort, that ignores practical stages and man's necessary everyday effort toward his own salvation. "My theories," whose owner expects to wake up on a bright and sunny morning to find Utopian Socialism" in full swing.

AIR DRAMA HELD OVER AT CAPITOL

"F.P.1," the new romance now playing at the Capitol Theatre, is the first Erich Pommer production under the Fox banner. The famous screen director has recently been engaged by Fox Film for an important position in its international plans. Under his supervision, "F.P.1" was directed by Karl Hartl. The featured roles in the picture are played by Conrad Veidt, Leslie Fenton and Jill Esmond.

This film is being continued for the balance of the week. The film "Moonlight and Pretzels," which was scheduled to appear Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, having been cancelled for this week.

To Play Here November 13

The Vancouver Symphony Orchestra was completed during the last three seasons, starting out with a full complement of the usual woodwind instruments, four horns, four trumpets, three trombones and two bass tubas, besides all the percussion instruments and the strings, there was little to complete. However, an English horn was imported direct from France (Cor Anglais) and later a contra-bassoon bought in Germany (Haeckel) was donated to the symphony society by an uncle of the conductor. Later a bass clarinet was purchased and so even the very unusual instruments are now available.

The orchestra numbers fourteen first violins and twelve seconds which brings it to the level of a rather large symphonic body. The Seattle Orchestra uses less string players and even the well-known Los Angeles Philharmonic only uses sixteen first violins.

This orchestra will play in Victoria November 13 at the Royal Victoria Theatre.

DOMINION THEATRE

Two veterans of Hollywood's extra ranks play the leading male roles in RKO-Radio's new screen drama, "Morning Glory," now showing at the Dominion Theatre.

They are Douglas Fairbanks Jr., who is co-starred with Katharine Hepburn in the film, and Adolphe Menjou.

Despite the fact that his father was one of the cinema's greatest stars, young Fairbanks chose to start his own picture career at the bottom of the ladder. He did extra work in a number of films before winning a chance to step into featured roles.

COMING TO DOMINION

Will Rogers and Louise Dresser will be reunited again in the next Fox production starring the comedian-philosopher, "Doctor Bull," although this time Miss Dresser will not be his wife. Vera Allen, recent importation from Broadway, has been cast for the leading feminine role and John Ford directed.

Rogers and Miss Dresser were last teamed together in "State Fair."

"Doctor Bull," is the new title on "The Last Adam," recent Book-of-the-Month Club selection and a current best seller. The film, with Marian Nixon, Howard Lally, Berton Churchill, Andy Devine, Rochelle Hudson and Ralph Morgan in supporting roles, comes on Thursday to the Dominion Theatre.

COMING TO EMPIRE

Coming to the Empire Theatre next week for a four-day engagement is Texas Guinan, famous Broadway entertainer and her company. This troupe of entertainers, direct from the World's Fair will bring to Victoria theatregoers an intimate view of night life as it is in the American metropolis. A cast of thirty chorus girls are with the show.

More than 11,000 persons will be eligible to vote in the civic elections here in December, according to the list now being completed by M. Frank Hunter, the city clerk.

Registration of householders and licensees closed yesterday evening with a total of 1,666 on the list, which is a slight drop from last year. In addition there are about 9,500 property owners who automatically go on the voters' roll.

Printing o fthe list will go ahead immediately and it will be ready for the Court of Revision on November 20.

Do you know?

How the traditional Hallowe'en derived its name? Answer: The celebration of Hallowe'en is of heathen origin. In later years it was changed to the holy evening before All Saints' Day.

TWO CHARGED AS COUNTERFEITERS

Edward Baker and Stanley Waye, arrested yesterday by Provincial Police, will be charged in Kamloops Police Court with attempting to manufacture spurious twenty-five and fifty-cent coins, according to advices received at headquarters here from Inspector John Shirras at Kamloops.

The pair were arrested following police investigation of a report that counterfeit coins had been widely circulated in provincial relief camps, and especially in the Kamloops area.

The police also seized a quantity of material allegedly used for manufacture of the coins in a shack on a hillside three miles west of Kamloops. Baker was arrested in Kamloops and Waye in a relief camp.

Sergeant W. L. Service and Constable D. S. E. Thomson have been tracking the counterfeiters since October 10, when the spurious money was first reported. They raided the shack after becoming suspicious of what was apparently a constant guard kept to warn the occupants.

IS LAID TO REST

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for George William Clark, who passed away in this city on Saturday. Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., conducted the service and interment was in Royal Oak Burial Park. The following acted as pallbearers: T. J. Taylor, P. W. Raymer, J. Ormiston, P. Lindsay, G. Gordon and W. Gallagher.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Douglas Street Baptist Young People's Society will hold a regular meeting on Friday evening next, at 7.30 o'clock. The speaker will be Mrs. M. Ward, and the chairman, Miss M. Crowe. All young people are invited.

Supplies of eggs are becoming more plentiful, and prices will probably rise no further. There is, however, no prospect of an immediate drop. Storage eggs are being disposed of quite freely.

H. D. Parizeau, director in Victoria for the Canadian Hydrographic Service, will be the speaker at the regular meeting of the Kinsmen Club in the Empress Hotel to-morrow evening at 6.15 o'clock.

Regular business will be before members of the Trades and Labor Council at their meeting to-night. With two important delegates actively engaged in political campaigning, and others working in their support, nothing unforeseen is expected.

LIBERAL WORK PLAN CHEERED

Audiences in Vancouver Give Pattullo Ovation on "Work and Wages" Scheme

Leader Heard By Large Audiences in Vancouver East and Point Grey

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—T. D. Pattullo, provincial Liberal leader, was introduced to two meetings in Vancouver yesterday evening as the man destined to be called on to form a new government of action for British Columbia within the next few days.

The Liberal leader wound up the Vancouver campaign by addressing large and enthusiastic audiences in Vancouver East and Point Grey.

In the Point Grey Junior High School one of the largest political audiences ever seen in Kerrisdale assembled to hear Mr. Pattullo and the three Liberal candidates, Dr. G. M. Weir, Robert Wilkinson and S. S. McKeen. At the Oddfellow's Hall, Victoria Drive, the hall was packed and many were turned away from the gathering addressed by Mr. Pattullo, J. G. Turgeon, and Manfred McGeer the Vancouver East candidate.

ABLE ADMINISTRATOR

Chris McCrae, former M.P.P., who introduced Mr. Pattullo at Kerrisdale, said every business man who had had contact with Mr. Pattullo during his twelve years in charge of the Lands Department agreed the present Liberal leader had in that department given the ablest and best administration the province had ever known.

In outlining the Liberal education policy, Mr. Pattullo expressed gratification that a man of the international reputation of Dr. G. M. Weir in educational circles should be running as a candidate in Point Grey. In declaring for more education rather than less education, Mr. Pattullo expressed horror at the present condition in which boys were being barred from high schools in certain sections because of high fees, while at the same time society denied them the right to work.

WORK AND WAGES

The solemn pledge that, pending setting up of a programme of work and wages through well considered public works to provide for the unemployed and get rid of the dole, the government would not permit anybody to suffer for want of food, clothing and shelter, was applauded.

The manifold contributions the proposed Economic Council could make to corelate industrial activity for the purpose of affording better distribution of available labor was also greeted with applause.

When Mr. Pattullo went on to explain his reason for holding the national credit should be utilized to promote a war on poverty just as freely as it would be used in an international war, the audience gave him an ovation.

PERILOUS TRIP SAVES PATIENT

Provincial Police Accomplish Hazardous Journey to Save Young Trapper

Make 114-Mile Trip Through Woods in 56 Hours By Car, Horse and Foot

After being carried four miles in an improvised stretcher, through dense bush country, placed on a horse that slowly picked its way over a twenty-two-mile trail in rough country and then traveling thirty-one miles in an automobile to Bridge River Station on the P.G.E., Guy Winning twenty-one-year-old trapper, is recovering in Vancouver from blood poisoning contracted through a bad burn sustained when he spilt a pail of tea on his left leg.

The story is told in a report of Constable F. B. Woods-Johnson of the Provincial Police stationed in the Bridge River country.

The constable was notified late last month that a man was sick and destitute in a lonely cabin on Slim Creek, about twenty-five miles from the Bridge River Highway. Constable Woods-Johnson, in company with a guide and assistant left next day with pack horses. They were forced to leave the horses four miles from the cabin, the trail ending at Slim Creek.

Winning was found to be in a serious condition. He had scalded his leg from the knee to the foot and in taking off his breeches had pulled off a great deal of skin from the knee. He was not equipped with a first-aid kit and blood poisoning set in.

Owing to his condition Constable Woods-Johnson decided not to stop overnight at a cabin on the creek, but to continue the arduous journey to the railway station in order to make connections with the train next morning. After dressing the leg the patient was packed on a crude stretcher through thick bush, up and down steep mountain sides and forded across creeks to where the horses were. Then began the journey to the motor road where the man was rushed to Bridge River station in time to catch the Vancouver-bound train.

One hundred and fourteen miles were covered by the constable and his assistants in fifty-six hours by car, horse and on foot.

FOSTER SEEKS TO CLEAR AIR

Issues Explanation to Electors Following Clash With Major Hardinge

Following the clash at Sidney last week when Col. W. W. Foster, Independent candidate for the Gulf Islands, mounted the platform of his rival, Major J. B. Hardinge, Non-Partizan candidate, and heated words were exchanged, Col. Foster has circulated a letter to the electors giving his side of the quarrel between the two over the nomination.

The letter says that again this week Major Hardinge reiterated the charge that he was offered a consideration by the Colonel if he, the Major, would retire from the contest.

SUBJECT WAS DISCUSSED

In this connection Colonel Foster tells of a meeting between the two at the Union Club at Major Hardinge's invitation, where the subject of Major Hardinge dropping out of the race was discussed.

"I understood this invitation would involve a discussion of the situation of the islands and that being the case asked Major Hardinge at once whether such a discussion being in the club should not be absolutely confidential," the letter states.

Colonel Foster says Major Hardinge opened up the subject by stating his retirement had been spoken of, but he had already incurred a great deal of expense in his campaign and he had to consider the views of others promoting his candidature.

Colonel Foster proceeds that, believing Major Hardinge's party had money for their candidate's expenses, he told the major he presumed he was expecting to have his expenses refunded. The Colonel denies offering a consideration to Major Hardinge to drop out, adding that both by letter and verbally he had the major's assurance of withdrawal without any consideration except that of a change of the Colonel's attitude regarding absolute independence.

Colonel Foster charges that the confidential conversation at the club has been gravely distorted, with no other object than to obtain some political advantage.

FINE FAILED TO IMPRESS

Chinese Merchant Comes Back For More Under Shops Closing By-law

A fine of $15 a few months ago and $20 last Saturday apparently did not impress upon Yuen Lee, Chinese merchant, that he must not keep his store open after 6 o'clock at night.

When a police officer walked into the store after closing time Saturday Lee was still doing business, so he appeared in court again to-day. A plea for leniency was made by J. L. Clay, his counsel, but the Magistrate decided Lee needed a further lesson and imposed a fine of $20 or ten days.

Fong, facing a similar charge, was remanded to Saturday when he pleaded not guilty.

The charge against Sheo Wing, charged with selling firecrackers to a boy under sixteen years, was also stood to Saturday. He pleaded not guilty.

Last Tribute To Mrs. Nestor Noel

The hymns sung were, "Sun of My Soul" and "Hark, Hark My Soul." Mrs. G. A. Downard sang the solo, "My God, I Thank Thee." The casket was surrounded by a profusion of beautiful flowers, testifying to the high esteem in which Mrs. Noel was held by her many friends. The following acted as pallbearers: Edwin Holmans, George Markland, Harry Rouse and William May. Interment was in Royal Oak Burial Park.

C.C.F. DIFFER OVER RUSSIA

T. Guy Sheppard Stands Alone in Rebuking Critical Comments of Missionary

Charges Rev. M. Billester Was Brought to Victoria By Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe

A split in the ranks of the C.C.F. on that party's attitude towards the Russian Soviet was evidenced at the City Temple yesterday evening when T. Guy Sheppard, one of the four Victoria candidates, told an audience of 1,200 persons that the remaining candidates who were scheduled to appear on the platform with him to rebuke the attacks on Russia by Rev. Michael Billester, had refused to stand with him and he had been told to leave the subject of Russia alone because it might lose votes for the party.

The purpose of the meeting was to give "The Truth About Russia and Rev. Michael Billester." During the evening he charged that the missionary had been brought to Victoria for political purposes and openly stated he had definite proof that Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe had been responsible for the missionary's appearance in the city.

HINCHLIFFE DENIES CHARGE

Mr. Hinchliffe since the meeting has denied this statement, stating he had never heard of Mr. Billester before he came to Victoria and had not been responsible for his coming, and even if he had, he would have no regrets about it.

Mr. Sheppard stressed the fact that his being able to stand on the platform alone and say what he liked about Russian policies and make his own comments on the C.C.F. amply demonstrated the fact that C.C.F. candidates were not under the rule of any council of twelve as claimed by its opponents.

In referrence to the remark that the C.C.F. might lose votes on the Russian question, Mr. Sheppard opined that no man who was sincere in his belief of the principles of the movement need have any fear of losing votes. If they did not get the votes of those who stood for the principles of the movement, they were as well off without them, he claimed.

NOT DEFENDING RUSSIA

"I am not here to defend Soviet Russia. She is quite able to look after herself. I do not intend to defend Russia in any shape or form, or to attempt to defend the Soviet of the atrocities that Mr. Billester accuses her of. Any statement that he has made of the Russia of to-day will not be as damning as the statements I am going to make concerning the atrocities of the capitalistic class of the Russia as I knew it," said Mr. Sheppard.

Mr. Sheppard told of his experiences in Russia during 1918 and 1919 at which time he commanded the 29th Battalion of the London Regiment. He described a life of bitterness for the peasants under the Czarist rule. They were cut to ribbons by the swords of army colonels and thousands of young and old suffered from dread diseases of three generations. Whitened bones of human skeletons were strung along 750 miles of railway and children used the bones of humans to make castanets while Russian women made flower pots of human skulls.

"The things I could tell you of Russia under the old regime would make the stories told by Mr. Billester look like bedtime stories. It is a fact, and the proof is in the records of the British War Office, that for every tie in that 750 miles of railway, a human being perished. These are facts and they were under the capitalistic regime of the Czar of Russia," he stated.

DIAMOND SHOW IS DESCRIBED

Joseph Rose Tells Kiwanians of Exhibit at Chicago Fair

Mark Purser Relates History and Development of Petroleum Industry

An interesting description of the diamond exhibit at the World's Fair was given to members of the Kiwanis Club by Joseph Rose at their weekly luncheon in the Empress Hotel yesterday. Mr. Rose explained the entrance into the exhibit and gave a few sidelights on the large gems and the care taken in their protection. Mark Purser, another club member, also spoke, dealing with the history of petroleum.

Mr. Rose explained he had devoted considerable time to the study of diamonds and their curious lore and he had looked forward with keen anticipation to seeing the exhibit.

When approaching the diamond display, the visitor was struck with an interesting diorama depicting the gold fields of South Africa with Kimberley in the foreground and one was almost led to believe that he was actually viewing the fields.

REALISTIC SURROUNDINGS

The visitor was then taken down in a lift and by an intricate system of forcing high pressure down a shaft, the stranger felt he was going down several hundred feet into the bowels of the earth, when, in reality, he only descended fifty feet. On getting out of the lift one saw the tunneling processes of mining diamonds, and after passing through this section, was taken up again in another lift, where the greasing tables for separating the diamonds from the ore were shown.

He explained that the grease used in the process had an affinity for diamonds only and all other materials were removed by an agitator. It was interesting to note that out of every four tons of crushed rock placed on the agitator, only one carat of diamonds was obtained, he said.

Mr. Rose described the methods of cleaving, polishing and cutting the stones.

Among the notable stones exhibited were: the Tiffany diamond, weighing 287 carats when it was originally mined and cut down to 128 carats by cleaving; the Holtz diamond, weighing 72 carats, was mined in Brazil; the Nassack diamond, valued at more than $500,000, and the Boule necklace, which was thirty-five inches long, the stones being joined by exquisite gold fasteners.

COLLECTION OF GEMS

The housing and protecting of the jewels was an exhibit in itself, Mr. Rose said. The showcase was built of drill-proof steel with shatterproof glass. If the glass was struck hard by anyone attempting to steal the jewels, the whole case dropped into the ground and was covered by a steel top. In addition tear gas was issued which no gas mask could stand, and a general alarm was raised in the quarters where guards were kept.

Mr. Purser dealt with the history and discovery of petroleum and its first uses for commercial and lubricating purposes. There were varying opinions as to its formation, which were divided into the organic and inorganic theories, he said. He explained that it was formed by great pressure in the interior of the earth which combined hyrogen and carbon.

As far as could be ascertained, its earliest use dated back to 2000 B.C., when it was used for cementing the walls of Babylon. The Egyptians also used petroleum and its products for embalming, he said.

The first record of petroleum's use for illumination purposes dated back to the Roman era when it was used for burning in the temple of Jupiter. In the tenth century, the Russians did a large commercial trade with petroleum, he stated.

DISCOVERED IN ENGLAND

Modern petroleum was first discovered in Derbyshire, England, Mr. Purser said, but the find was soon worked out. It was discovered in United States by a Franciscan missionary who wrote about the strange wells issuing from the earth. In 1853 a Dr. Bruer valuable for illumination and lubrication purposes.

Mr. Purser then dealt with the finds in Pennsylvania, stating the industry had grown steadily until there were now 320,000 wells in United States, and before the NRA came into effect, these were producing 2,400,000 barrels daily.

President J. B. Clearihue thanked both speakers.

KIWANIANS BACK MUSICIANS' PLEA

Efforts of the Victoria Musicians' Union to have Victoria musicians recognized by the Canadian Radio Commission and have their programmes broadcast over the commission's Canadian network, were endorsed by the Kiwanis Club at its luncheon in the Empress Hotel yesterday.

Edmonton Grads Prove They Can Take It and Still Come Back

* * *

Winnipegs May Adopt New System in Canadian Grid Play-down

* * *

Blue Ribbons Seek Revenge Against Varsity This Evening

EDMONTON Grads, Canada's world-famous women's basketball team, have proven they can take it and come back. Several months ago the sports world was stunned by the defeat of the Edmonton team at the hands of the Durant, Oklahoma, quintette in a series to determine the team to represent this continent at next year's Olympic at London. The series played on the Grads' home floor saw the Edmonton girls completely outclassed by the lassies from across the border. At that time sport followers wondered just how the prairie team would react to its surprise setback. The Grads have settled the question by coming through with colors flying in their present series against Chicago Red Devils for possession of the Underwood Trophy. The Edmonton girls won in three straight games, the invaders never getting a look in.

* * *

When the Durant girls defeated the Grads they broke a string of victories a mile long. Maybe the Grads are now started off on another winning streak. One of the interested spectators at the Grads-Chicago series was Lyman Bingham, assistant president of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, who attended as the guest of the Grads, to obtain an accurate picture of how United States teams are treated while in Edmonton. The unfavorable publicity the prairie city received following the series with the Durant girls resulted in the Grads obtaining the presence of the A.A.U. official at the series with the Chicago girls. Following the series with the Durant team the coach of the United States squad declared he and his players had received rough treatment at the hands of Edmonton spectators and criticized the hospitality of the Grads.

If the Winnipegs emerge from the Western Canada Canadian football play-downs with the championship tucked away it is reported they will not follow the usual western custom of challenging for the Canadian championship. They intend to go east if they qualify, but they will request that they be given a semi-final play-off with the winners of the Ontario Rugby Football Union. This looks like a sensible arrangement. If they turn out to be good enough to go over the semi-final round, they will have proved their right to figure in the final. If they fail it will prove that they haven't the class to battle for the Dominion crown.

In almost every instance in which the west has sent a team east for the play-offs, the results have been disappointing for the western representatives. Incidentally, the east has shown little interest in the fixtures, and on several occasions, they have been anything but financial successes. This has been due to the fact that the eastern champions have always outclassed the western titleholders. In the forthcoming western play-downs Winnipegs tackle Regina Rough Riders with the visitors to engage the winner of the Vancouver Meralomas-Calgary Atomahs play-off in the western final.

To-night at Vancouver the Victoria Blue Ribbons, holders of the Canadian senior men's basketball championship, are seeking to redeem themselves for the defeat suffered here two weeks ago at the hands of the University of British Columbia squad. The Ribbons have taken their complete line-up to the Mainland city and are confident of being able to even matters with the students. In the game here the champions finished on the short end of a 21 to 18 score. Although they will be playing on a strange floor, Chuck Chapman and his boys figure they will come back with a victory marked up in the books. The Ribbons, although weakened through the loss of the two Patrick boys, Lynn and Murray, have secured capable replacements and with plenty of stiff competition the team should develop into one of championship calibre. The material is there but it has to be developed.

Flying Frenchmen Have New Goalie And Forward Line

Lorne Chabot, Former Net Minder For Toronto Leafs, Now With Redshirts

Rookies Are New Offensive Threat

Morenz, Gagnon and Joliat, First-string Forwards, Flash Old-time Form

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 1.—Montreal's Canadiens, the dashing Flying Frenchmen of the National Hockey League, are all keyed up and ready for the start of the punishing winter hockey marathon leading to the Stanley Cup finals. In good condition and full of enthusiasm, after a few weeks of intensive training at their quarters here, the Redshirts are impatiently eager to hurl themselves into the struggle with all their traditional fire and speed.

Newsy Lalonde, once a Canadiens' star himself, put his men to work with a will as soon as they reported. The Flying Frenchmen played basketball, football, golf and panted and groaned at physical drill until they spilled out on the ice at the Jock Harty Arena here and got down to hockey.

The preliminary fun was over to-day and the squad Leo Dandurand and Newsy will send after the Stanley Cup was trimmed down to fighting weight and raring to go.

SEVERAL CHANGES

The lineup presents several changes since the Canadiens were edged out of the playoffs last spring by New York Rangers. In the first place the Canadiens have a new backstop. George Hainsworth, veteran Canadiens goalkeeper of two Stanley Cup championship teams, was exchanged with Lorne Chabot of Toronto Maple Leafs. Hainsworth goes to Leafs while Chabot, former goalie for Rangers, will guard the Redshirts' nets. Chabot has been working well in practice and Canadiens are satisfied.

Albert Leduc has disappeared from the Canadiens' defence and appears now with Ottawa Senators. Leo Bourgault, secured from Ottawa late last season, has secured a permanent position on the Canadiens' rear guard. Sylvio Mantha, Canadiens' defence veteran, has been going fine, and Gerald Carson, one of the best improved players of the league last season, and Marty Burke will be the other available defence men.

Howie Morenz, "Stratford Streak," has been training all summer and is in the best "start-of-the-season" shape for years. With Morenz at centre, Johnny Gagnon, "Chicoutimi Black Cat," at right wing, and Aurel Joliat, midget stickmaster, on the left, the deadly Canadiens' first-string forward line will be ready for heavy duty.

LEPINE SECOND PIVOT

Another Canadiens' front line, a new organization, will be given a trial under fire. At centre will be hefty Jack Riley, one time Vancouver boy who played with Detroit Olympics in the International League last season. Riley weighs around 170 pounds in trim and has been showing considerable ability at the pivot post. Marcel Raymond, with Canadiens part of last season and then with Providence Reds of the Canadian-American League, will be on right wing of the new line with Armand Mondou on the left boards.

Mondou, for several seasons with Canadiens, was with Providence at the close of last season. Sammy Godin, a new name on the Canadiens' roster, came to the club from Buffalo Bisons of the International League, and will be carried as a spare right wing, probably to alternate with Raymond on the new forward line.

TWO MEN PACK WRESTLER OUT

"Man Mountain" Dean, 302 Pounds, Wins on Foul From "Jumping Joe" Savoldi

New York, Nov. 1.—Jim Browning, the Missouri cowboy of kingly mien and flying scissors fame, retained his leg of the world heavyweight wrestling title at Madison Square Garden Monday evening by defeating Sandor Szabo, Hungary, after fifty minutes and fifty-six seconds of turbulent grappling.

In the twin feature of the eight-bout programme, "Man Mountain" Dean, huge 302-pounder, billed as from Norcross, Ga., although he first saw light in New York's Ghetto, won from Joe Savoldi, weight a mere 200, after 3:46.

Dean was knocked cold and needed two policemen to assist him from the ring.

ICE GOSSIP

Now major league hockey teams are releasing players to the minors, clubs in the junior circuits are getting down to practice.

* * *

The fifty-dollar-a-week top salary plan, with players sharing in profits, if any, has led to the retirement of many minor leaguers but clubs still have plenty of material, even if it isn't all the sort they would like.

* * *

London Tecumsehs had only five players working out yesterday but expected all their hirelings on the job to-day. Their speedy line of Pettinger, Gregg and Gillie already are on hand with Gordie Fraser, defence veteran, and manager Clem Loughlin.

* * *

A forty-four-game schedule spread over only eighteen weeks is causing some International League managers concern. Both Buffalo and London are objecting to it, claiming their games are bunched too closely.

* * *

Bisons are scheduled to play six games in eight days while Tecumsehs will have to play six in ten. It is possible their complaints will lead to rearrangement of the schedule.

* * *

After years in the minors, Sammy Godin is back in the big time. The Ottawa Valley player who broke in with Senators and has played with several International League teams has been signed to a Canadien contract.

* * *

Manager George Boucher's Ottawa Senators are going so well in practice the worry wrinkles he developed when Cooney Weiland and Allan Shields held out for more money have disappeared.

* * *

Led by "Battleship" Leduc, his defence staff, which includes Bert McInenly, "Scotty" Bowman and "Yip" Foster, are working to his satisfaction in practice and, with the rest of the team, appear to be rounding into splendid shape.

GARRISON HAS SECOND ENTRY

Work Point Enters Another Team in Senior B English Rugby Section

Local Union Discusses Plans For November 11 Game; New Cup Selection Plan

A second English rugby team from Work Point Barracks was entered into the Senior B division of the Victoria Rugby Union at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the offices of Mason and Diespecker. The entry was made by Dr. J. E. Hunter, who stated the Garrison boys were proving keen followers of the English code, and were anxious to have a second entry in the senior division.

This entry makes this section a five-team loop, and some keen competition is anticipated before the end of the season. Other teams in the B section are: J.B.A.A., Fifth Brigade, Navy and Garrison first team. The first half schedule of Senior B rugby will be redrafted immediately and will be presented to the union at its next meeting.

ARRANGE BIG GAME

Further plans for the big army game at the Athletic Park on Armistice Day, between the Canadian Scottish and Fifth Brigade, were discussed at the meeting. Every effort is to be made to make this game the leading rugby event of the season. The two teams will battle for the Lieutenant-Governor's Cup.

H. J. Ketchen reported the McKechnie Cup schedule was expected to be released in Vancouver by Friday. Victoria will play its opening match in this division on December 26 and the second game early in January. Arthur H. Cox and Bob Travis, local delegates, will probably attend the Vancouver meeting this week.

A new plan for selecting McKechnie Cup players for this year was offered by H. A. "Tommy" Tomalin, former referee, and recently appointed member of the selection committee, who suggested an exhibition game between the "Possibles" and "Probables," from which the fifteen could be chosen. This is to come before the selection committee later.

Meralomas To Meet Calgary On Saturday

British Columbia Canadian Football Champions Engage in Canadian Play-downs

Victor in Sudden-death Game Will Enter Final of Western Canada Series

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—Prepared to invade the prairies in search of further Canadian football honors, Meralomas, British Columbia representatives, were to leave for Calgary to-day, where they meet Altomah Tigers in a sudden death game for a berth in the western Canada final on Saturday.

Twenty-four players will make the trip, including Jackie May, star pass receiver from New Westminster's entry in the Big Four League, who was added to the Black and Orange roster when the clubbers eliminated the Royal City squad from the British Columbia play-offs.

When Meralomas meet Altomahs, they may be minus two star backfielders who aided them to win the coast title. Tom Ferris, triple threat fullback, suffered a broken hand last Saturday, and unless a brace can be constructed, will be out of the game.

NIBLO INJURED

George Niblo, considered one of British Columbia's best broken runners and drop kick artist, is still suffering from three broken ribs, suffered two weeks ago, and may also be kept out of the game.

Del Findlay, dean of coast referees, accompanied the team to act as head linesman in Saturday's fixture.

CALGARY SIGNS "SMOKY" HARRIS

Former Seattle Player to Perform With Tigers in Northwestern Ice Loop

Calgary, Nov. 1.—Roster of the Calgary Tigers of the Northwestern Pro Hockey League to-day numbered five with announcement of owner Lloyd Turner he had signed two more men, Joe Carbol, defence, and "Smoky" Harris, forward. Previously he had lined up "Red" McCusker to mind the nets and Johnny Houbregs and Bill Hutton on the defence line.

Carbol hails from Canmore, enterprising Alberta mining town that produced the Jerwa boys, Joe, Art, Steve and Frank. He turned professional with Seattle and then beat out Bill Coutu, former Montreal Canadien star for defence position with Minneapolis. Subsequently he played with Chicago Shamrocks, Detroit Red Wings and St. Louis. Harris hails from Renora, home of the famous Thistles and played two seasons with Seattle.

An important meeting of the Victoria West first and second division football teams will be held to-night at the clubhouse, corner of Esquimalt and Dominion Road, at 8 o'clock. All players are requested to attend.

Will Construct Two Yachts For Defence of Cup

Harold Vanderbilt and Junius Morgan Head Syndicates to Build U.S. Craft

To Race Against Sopwith's Craft

Americans Agree Defender Will Have to Be Fastest Boat Ever Built to Win

New York, Nov. 1.—The challenge of T. O. M. Sopwith, British sportsman who has picked up Sir Thomas Lipton's lifelong quest for the America's Cup, will be accepted formally by the New York Yacht Club to-morrow night, when plans for the defence of the historic old mug will be laid down.

A special meeting of the Yacht Club has been called by Commodore Junius S. Morgan, son of J. P. Morgan, and a member of the banking family that has been associated with the cup defence since the days of the defender's duels with the Valkyrie in the 1890's.

In all probability the cup races will be held next September off Newport, R.I., where in 1930, Sir Thomas, a fading old man, saw the last of his green Shamrock line, the fifth, beaten in four straight races by Harold S. Vanderbilt's slim white Enterprise.

TWO SYNDICATES

Where three years ago four candidates, Enterprise, Weetamoe, Whirlwind and Yankee, were built, and raced in an elimination series for the honor of defending the cup the America brought home in 1857, only two syndicates definitely have been formed this year.

Vanderbilt will head one, probably with Winthrop W. Aldrich, as an associate, and Morgan the other. The belief in yachting circles is that no syndicates will be formed in New England, where in 1930 the Yankee and the Whirlwind were built.

Vanderbilt's plans have progressed to such a point, it was learned yesterday, that he has had two models designed by Starling Burgess, who drew the plans for the Enterprise, and both have proven faster than the model of the 1930 defender in test races against each other.

MUST BE FASTEST YET

On all sides it is agreed that America's defender this time must be the fastest boat ever built if Sopwith's challenge is to be beaten off. His craft, the Endeavor, first all steel challenger, now under construction at Gosport, is said by her designer, Charles Nicholson, to be much faster than the Velsheda another J. class yacht that in twelve of seventeen races with the Shamrock V, beat her as badly as did the Enterprise.

A challenger on behalf of the Velsheda was considered last year by British yachtsmen, and was dropped only on the assurance of Nicholson, who designed the Shamrock line, that he could lay down an even faster boat, particularly in work to windward.

Because of changes in specifications for cup boats since the 1930 races, and the admitted speed of the challenger, there is little likelihood of any of the old boats returning to competition.

CONNIE MACK DENIES DEALS

Leader of Philadelphia A's Says He Has Disposed of None of His Players

Announcement Follows Revival of Rumor That Several Stars Have Been Sold

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 1.—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, stood in Shibe Park yesterday and emphatically said: "No, I haven't sold any ball players."

Visitors and telephone calls crowded into his circular office in the tower of the ball park with revived reports he had sold or traded Robert Moses Grove, pitching ace; Gordon S. Cochrane, catching star; "Eagle Eye" Max Bishop who holds down second base, and sundry other players.

"I haven't made any deals," said the veteran leader of the former world champions. "I haven't completed any negotiations and, therefore, there isn't anything to announce.

"I don't know what the future holds; there may be deals, but right now there is nothing to announce."

Men wise in the ways of baseball deals seem to think before Connie Mack celebrates his seventy-first birthday December 23, he will have announced disposal of one or more of his stars.

Belanger Beaten By Buck Everett

Asheville, N.C., Nov. 1.—Buck Everett, Gary, Ind., punched out a decisive ten-round decision over Charley Belanger, Winnipeg's veteran holder of the Canadian light-heavyweight title, here Monday night.

In the early rounds Belanger showed to advantage with his stinging right hand, but he was unable to stem the closing rally of his heavier opponent, who at 188½ had a six-pound edge.

Campbell Building Another Racing Car

Indianapolis, Nov. 1.—William Sturm, Indianapolis, business manager of the English speed king, Sir Malcolm Campbell, to-day said the racer had started work on another automobile that would prevent him from crossing the Atlantic this winter to attempt to better his own speed of 272.108 miles an hour.

BOBBY JONES WILL RETURN

Open tournaments are definitely slated in Maryland, North and South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Texas, California and Mexico.

The return of Bobby Jones to competition for the first time since his retirement after the 1930 season, is one of the prospective features of the closing part of the big tour. Jones has agreed to take part in the open tournament on the Augusta (Ga.) national course, March 22-25. The former world champion patterned this layout.

NUGGETS WIN IN OVERTIME

Defeat Victoria High School Shamrocks in Overtime Hoop Game 34 to 32

Noakes Scores Winning Basket in First Game of High School Basketball League

Victoria High School Nuggets defeated the Shamrocks, 34 to 32, after a five-minute overtime period yesterday at the school gym in the opening game of the High School Basketball League. The teams were deadlocked, 30 to 30, at the end of the regular playing session and in the extra five minutes the Nuggets caged four points to their opponents' two.

The Nuggets opened fast with Noakes and Florence caging four baskets in the first few minutes of play. Baskets by MacMurchie, Shepherd and Ishida soon wiped out the deficit and the Shamrocks left the floor at half time on the short end of a 16 to 14 score.

RALLY TIES SCORE

The Nuggets began strong in the second half, piling up six points in quick succession. The play then tightened up with neither team allowing any openings. Owing to fine combination and accurate shooting the Shamrocks managed to climb steadily and at the final whistle the teams were tied, 30 to 30.

In the five-minute overtime period Lam of the Shamrocks picked up MacMurchie's rebound and tossed a beautiful shot through the hoop. Florence retaliated with a long basket from a difficult angle and Noakes gave his squad the winning goal just before the final whistle.

G. Andrews handled the whistle.

Teams and inviditual scorers follow:

Nuggets — N. Florence (13), W. Fricker (2), L. MacGregor (6), K. Noakes (4), D. McAdams (1), L. Lowe (5), P. Jo (3) and C. McHaffie.

Shamrocks — R. Shepherd (13), J. Kirk, J. Fields, C. Lam (4), B. MacMurchie (11), G. Lowe, D. Beach, Y. Ishida (4), F. Minnie and S. Gaunt.

Germany May Lose 1936 Olympic Games

Baltimore, Nov. 1.—A new movement to transfer the 1936 Olympic games from Berlin because of anti-Jewish feeling in Germany was started yesterday by Albert P. Whalte, president of the South Atlantic Association of the Amateur Athletic Union.

In a letter to the associations of the A.A.U., Whelte asserted that "Germany, under the Nazis, has shown no disposition to observe the basic principles of sportsmanship," and said he would bring the question before the National A.A.U. convention at Pittsburgh, November 19, 20 and 21.

British Boxing Is Facing Crisis With Leaders Challenged

Members of Board of Control May Have to Resign Following Stormy Meeting

More Control To Ordinary Members

Lord Tweedmouth and Others Forced to Leave Session When Near Riot Seen

London, Nov. 1.—Professional boxing in Britain is at a crisis following an uproarious meeting of the British Board of Control, whose whole future now seems to be in the balance. Col. Myddelton, the chairman, himself expressed the opinion that with the end of the meeting came the end of the board. The board had not been having too comforting a time just previously.

Ted Broadribb has announced that he had definitely broken away from it and was going to run unlicensed shows on his own.

Jeff Dickson next cancelled his Watson-Rogers fight at the Albert Hall, which he said had been "killed" by the action of the board in refusing to recognize the contest as for the featherweight championship of Britain.

Then came the meeting and it was soon evident that the spirit of revolt was abroad. General disorder reigned, not very complimentary remarks, accusations and hints were thrown across the floor and the authority of the chair was flouted.

After five hours of it, Lord Tweedmouth and others members left the meeting in disgust but Col. Myddleton, carried through the agenda.

A resolution for the elimination from the board of all persons with a financial interest in the sport was defeated but a proposal that all boxers should wear protectors against low hitting was carried, as was the banning of all-in wrestling from boxing programmes.

REAL TROUBLE

The real trouble started when Harry Fleming, Manchester, and Harry Furness, another northern member, brought in a block of amendments which gave ordinary members greater control in the government of the game and consequently striking vitally at the governing powers of the board.

It was proposed that each amendment and proposed alterations should be taken separately, but this was defeated and they were taken en bloc.

Amid considerable excitement Col. Myddleton said: "If these are carried I am afraid I and my fellow stewards on the board will have to reconsider our position."

A show of hands immediately carried the amendments and alterations.

Harry Mason, former welterweight champion of Great Britain, and another stood on chairs to count the votes, but it was obvious that no count was needed. When Mason attempted to announce the result of the count there was a terrific uproar and his voice could not be heard.

The stewards at the top table, among them were Lord Tweedmouth and many others prominently connected with the professional side of boxing, sat astounded, unable either to gain control of the meeting or make themselves heard above the din.

Sam Russell, the referee, manager and promoter, leapt to his feet. He turned upon the meeting with a furious gesture.

"Do you know what you have done?" he demanded. "You can take it from me that as these resolutions are passed you can shut down the Board of Control. I tell you frankly that the Board of Control is finished."

NEAR RIOT SEEN

Pandemonium immediately broke loose. People in all parts of the hall jumped to their feet shouting and gesticulating. No one could be heard and a riot appeared imminent.

Lord Tweedmouth and another steward reached for their hats and coats and made for the door. They made their way out without any untoward incident amid the din.

Meanwhile Col. Myddelton, in the chair, kept his place, and, indeed, he carried through the agenda in spite of the interruptions. He passed the balance sheet, his voice being scarcely audible, while men harangued and argued and jostled one another all over the place and chairs were upset.

The stewards of the board are to meet to consider their position and it is hoped that they will find a means to salvation.

The Sporting Life makes some appropriate comments on the position:

"Mistakes have been made, but these were no justification for the insinuations and accusations which were made at the meeting against all and sundry, including a number of the finest sportsmen in the land.

"A new board is to be constituted, giving more control to ordinary members.

"Whether this will succeed remains to be seen, but it is doubtful if the new board will work better for the boxing game than the old board, dominated as it was by a group of sportsmen who had one common interest at heart, the good of the sport.

"We understand that the stewards are to meet shortly to discuss their position. If they decide to withdraw from taking any part in the work of the new board, it will be a tragedy for British boxing."

Two Prairie Pilots Reject Ice Schedule

Calgary, Nov. 1.—A tentative schedule for the newly formed Northwestern Professional Hockey League, sent out by Dr. Gordon Leitch, Portland league president failed to meet the approval of Calgary and Edmonton managers.

Both Lloyd Turner, manager of the Calgary team, and Gordon "Duke" Keats, Edmonton mentor, rejected the schedule, declaring their teams would be unable to play six games between December 8 and 20.

TOWNSEND IS HELD TO DRAW

Vancouver Welterweight and Al Lewis in Tame Eight-round Bout at Seattle

Seattle, Nov. 1.—Billy Townsend, 145½, Vancouver, B.C., and Al Lewis, 146¾, Seattle negro went eight rounds to a draw yesterday evening in a slow bout in which both scrappers appeared to be in far from good condition after long layoffs.

In the third round, the Vancouver blond slowed up, but his experience and toughness enabled him to weather Lewis's rallies from then on, although he was wild at times.

Redeeming himself with some stiff punches to Lewis's chin and some hefty punches to the negro's stomach, he evened up the scrap from the fifth round on. Lewis was careless with his left and landed four or five low blows.

After the bout, Jack Allen, Townsend's manager, said that his man would rest up for two days and then spend four solid weeks in the gym, getting back into shape.

Canadiens Have Large Hockey Squad In Training

Under the guidance of Coach Newsy Lalonde, the Montreal Canadiens are in training at Kingston, Ont., for the opening of the National Hockey League season on November 9. The Flying Frenchmen have several recruits seeking regular berths this year and the team will no doubt be strengthened considerably over last season. Those in the above picture are: Left to right, front row, kneeling: Art Lesieur, Leo Bourgault, Armand Mondou, Wildor Larochelle, "Pit" Lepine, Gerald Carson, Aurel Joliat, Johnny Gagnon, Art Alexandre, George Mantha. Standing: Lorne Chabot, Jack Draper, Sammy Godin, Paul Raymond, Charlie Heath, Albert Leduc, who has been sent to the Ottawa Senators, Harold Starr, who has been told to report to the Windsor team in the International League, Pete Palangio, Manager Newsy Lalonde, Marty Burke, Jack Portland, Roger Gaudette, Jack Riley, Howie Morenz and Claude Bourque.

RING DECISION BOOED BY FANS

John Henry Lewis Unpopular Victor Over Frank Rowsy at Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Nov. 1.—John Henry Lewis, Phoenix negro light-heavyweight, won an unpopular ten-round decision over Frank Rowzy, Los Angeles, in a fast fight at the Olympic Auditorium yesterday evening. Rowzy spotted his opponent eight pounds, coming in at 166½.

Lewis apparently caught the eye of Referee Abe Roth with a wild swinging finish in the tenth when he shook his opponent twice with hard rights to the head.

The decision drew a chorus of boos from the 3,500 fans, who thought the Los Angeles boy had won the battle. The Associated Press score card gave Lewis five rounds and Rowzy five.

TWO KNOCKOUTS

Ed Prante, 190, heavy hitting San Diego marine, put Harold Anderson, 178, Flint, Mich., away in the second round of a scheduled six-round bout after one minute and fifty-five seconds of fighting.

In the scheduled ten-round semi-windup, Dynamite Jackson, Santa Monica, Calif., knocked out Jack Roper, Chicago, in the eighth. Jackson weighed 207½ and Roper 196.

Former Player-manager of Windsor Bulldogs Will Direct Seattle Hockey Team

Seattle, Nov. 1.—Manager Frank Foyston of Seattle's new professional hockey club yesterday announced that Jack Arbour, who last year was player-manager of the Windsor Bulldogs in the International League, had been signed as captain.

"With a team of up-and-coming youngsters," Foyston said, "I felt that we had to have a tried campaigner to direct them."

Arbour has been in pro hockey for ten years, and broke in here as a spare player for the Metropolitans in their last year, 1923-24.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 1.—Johnny Gallagher, husky defenceman of Detroit Red Wings and formerly with Windsor Bulldogs and Montreal Maroons, was in Harper Hospital, Detroit, to-day recovering from a major brain operation.

The operation was made necessary by head injuries, apparently received last winter, and aggravated in recent workouts.

Johnny was reported resting comfortably. Detroit Hockey Club officials said he would likely be able to rejoin the Wings in the middle of December.

Montreal, Nov. 1.—An ambition of three years' standing will be achieved to-night by Joe Ghnouly, rugged St. Louis, Mo., lightweight, when he climbs into the Forum ring here to do battle with Kid Chocolate, Cuba, in a ten-round bout.

Ghnouly has been seeking a clash with the clever negro for a long while. His technical knockout triumph here recently over Al Foreman, British Empire lightweight titleholder, won him the chance against Chocolate.

Advance sale indicated a gate of $7,000, reached here only once in the last two seasons.

St. Louis, Nov. 1.—Decision on whether heirs of the late Phil Ball will offer the money-losing St. Louis Browns for sale, or continue to operate the club, may be reached this week. Montreal interests have been mentioned as prospective buyers.

President William Harridge of the American Baseball League, who has said he will attempt to find a buyer for the Browns if the heirs desire his assistance, is expected here to-morrow for a conference with trustees and executors of Ball's estate.

Babe Ruth also was reported "interested" with friends in ownership of the club.

Women Golfers Hold Hidden Hole Tourney

The women members of Gorge Vale Golf Club will hold a hidden hole competition at the course during the week-end. Play will be over nine holes, medal play, and the score for the nine holes to be handed in to the secretary.

The games may be played on Saturday or Sunday, and it is hoped that those who are able to do so will arrange their matches for Saturday morning or Sunday afternoon, in order to relieve congestion on the course.

Entries should be made without delay to the secretary. Players may choose their own partners.

Chuck Klein Deal Revived Once More

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—Much-discussed and oft-reported deal which would send Chuck Klein to Chicago Cubs is in the news again, revived by a statement from the president of the Phillies the club must part with "some" players to aid its financial situation.

"We are forced to part with some of our players in order to get the necessary financial assistance to carry us through next year," said Gerald Nugent, although he insisted he has made no deals with other clubs yet.

WOLGAST WINS OVER BRITON

Philadelphia Flyweight Takes Twelve-round Decision From Jackie Brown

London, Nov. 1.—Midget Wolgast, Philadelphia, recognized in some parts of the United States as flyweight champion, outpointed Jackie Brown, England, also a claimant to the title, in a twelve-round non-title bout in Albert Hall, Monday evening.

Brown, who is recognized by the National Boxing Association of Britain as world's 112-pound king, gave Wolgast a strenuous time of it all the way in a battle acclaimed by ring-siders as the finest contest seen in England since the hey-day of Jimmy Wilde. The American piled up points, however, with a sharp and lightning-fast left which constantly pierced the Briton's defence.

Teddy Slingsby Returns to Town

Teddy Slingsby, Victoria professional marathon swimmer, who competed in this year's fifteen-mile events at Toronto and Chicago, arrived back in the city yesterday. Slingsby will spend the winter here and next summer will make another serious attempt to win major honors in the rich eastern long distance races.

CUNNINGHAM IS LEADING

Middle Distance Runner Foremost Candidate For U.S. Leading Athlete Award

"Bill" Bonthron Running Him Close Second; Metcalfe in Third Position

New York, Nov. 1.—The nominating straws which show which way the voting winds are blowing yesterday indicated either Glenn Cunningham or Will R. "Bill" Bonthron will be acclaimed outstanding American amateur athlete for 1933 and awarded the James E. Sullivan Memorial Medal.

The two great middle distance runners, who did not meet each other last year as they swept through all other opposition with only one setback each, are far out in the lead among the twenty or so athletes nominated by 500 sports authorities with Cunningham holding a slight edge at the moment. The nominations closed to-day.

In third place among the nominees is Ralph Metcalfe, negro sprint star from Marquette University, making the medal competition this year a strictly collegiate matter. Bonthorn is a student at Princetown and Cunningham at the University of Kansas.

NON-PARTIZANS ATTACK POOLEY

James Elrick Says Attorney-General Controlled By Committee of Four

"Although Attorney-General Pooley has denounced the C.C.F. for being controlled by a Committee of Twelve, Mr. Pooley is being controlled in Esquimalt by a Committee of Four," declared James Elrick, Non-Partizan candidate in Esquimalt at a meeting held yesterday evening at Metchosin Hall. Fred C. Elliott, Alderman Walter Luney, who is running under the same banner in Victoria, and Mrs. Frank Campbell were the supporting speakers.

Substantiating statements made by other speakers, Mr. Elrick declared that his campaign was clean throughout and that the Non-Partizan movement did not include party politics.

Assuring the electors he would give a yearly account of his doing in the Legislature, Mr. Elrick made an eloquent appeal for support, promising that he would fight for everything beneficial to Esquimalt and the province as a whole.

"If the movement I represent is elected, and a leader cannot be found in the House, then we will go outside the Legislature for a suitable man," he declared.

Mr. Elliott condemned the actions in the past of Attorney-General R. H. Pooley, present representative for the Esquimalt riding. Making the assertion that Mr. Pooley held a thorough investigation into the liquor situation in the province and that the evidence accumulated by him was "damnable," he blamed the Attorney-General for not making the facts of his investigation public.

Alderman Walter Luney stated that the Non-Partizan group was in favor of shorter working hours, "providing that industry is not affected and unfair competition with large eastern firms is started." This would bring about a certain degree of relief to the unemployed. He also favored a minimum wage for men.

Mrs. Campbell appealed to the feminine element in the electorate and declared that they were mortgaging the future of their children and their children's children by sanctioning such things as have been approved in the past.

CLEVELAND WILL HAVE ICE SQUAD

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 1.—Cleveland Indians will play in the International Hockey League this season, President Charles S. King announced on his return from Cleveland Monday. Financial arrangements satisfactory to the league president had been made, he said.

As a result Windsor Bulldogs will lose the services of Frank Daley and London Tecumsehs will lose Bernie Brophy.

The players were taken over by these two clubs when Cleveland was believed out of the league for this year.

Swimming Practice To-morrow Evening

A practice of members of the Pacific Swimming Club will be held at the Crystal Garden to-morrow evening at 8.15 o'clock. Handicap races will be run off and all members are requested to attend.

AWARD GOLF TOURNEYS

Chicago, Nov. 1.—The 1931 women's western match play golf championship Monday was awarded to the Los Angeles Country Club and the annual open tournament to the Portland, Ore., Golf Club. Mrs. Howard D. Raymond, Evanston, Ill., was re-elected president of the association.

No dates were set for the championships.

Anti-Grasshopper Campaign Planned

Canadian Press

Edmonton, Nov. 1.—Prairie governments officials will gather in Regina to-morrow to discuss plans for an organized battle against grasshoppers next year, according to Hon. George Hoadley, Alberta Minister of Agriculture of Alberta. There is a possibility United States officials, from districts on the international boundary, will attend the conference.

The meeting was planned after interviews prairie officials had with Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, during the Regina World Grain Show in July. The serious grasshopper menace has caused anxiety on the prairies.

HALLOWE'EN MURDER

Rockport, Mass., Nov. 1 (Associated Press)—Firemen broke into the burning home of Mrs. Augusta Johnson, fifty-five, to-day and found the body of Mrs. Johnson slumped across a bed. Police said the woman appeared to have been beaten to death and her home set afire. Mrs. Johnson went to a Hallowe'en social yesterday evening and was accompanied home by friends. That was the last seen of her.

Teams and Players In Football Duels

Many Sidelights Offered Saturday in Eastern Canada Gridiron Programme

Ottawa Rough Riders Tackle Toronto Argos; Montreal and Hamilton Tangle

Toronto, Nov. 1.—Some of the most important duelling, massed and otherwise, of the football season is on the books for distribution Saturday. The man-to-man engagements may be almost as exciting as the free-for-alls themselves which are of a crucial nature in two eastern divisions.

When Ottawa and Toronto Argonauts move into battle here, the crowd will be watching for these sidelights, the Ellowitz-Box punting duel, Johnson-Mullen passing feud, and Tommy-Taylor running test.

At Montreal there will be the matching of wits and coaching guile between old Frank Shaughnessy, McGill, and young Ted Reeve of Queen's with the chances of both teams to win the intercollegiate title at stake.

WESTERN OUT

The downhill speed race in which Western and University of Toronto are entered is to be decided at London when the purple and the blue hook up. Western is already "out" and another setback for Varsity would eliminate the champions of 1932.

A Welch-Turville kicking struggle may reasonably be expected to develop in the Tigers-Montreals game at Hamilton. Sarnia Imperials expect to be too busy rolling up points against St. Michael's College here in their O.R.F.U. game to bother with individual stuff.

FRENCH FIGHTER WINS

Paris, Nov. 1.—Henry Putrain, French featherweight, outpointed Simon Chauvez, Venezuela, in a ten-round bout here yesterday evening.

Winnipeg Wheat Pit Firm Despite Loss At Chicago To-day

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Nov. 1.—Despite continued lack of foreign interest and weakness in outside markets, wheat prices were firm on the grain exchange to-day and closed fractionally higher to unchanged.

Hedging pressure was increased, but good support was forthcoming to absorb the offerings. Closing quotations were ¼ higher to unchanged, with November at 62⅛, December at 61⅞ and May future at 65¾ cents.

Paying only scant attention to outside development, the market for most of the session held fractional gains. In the opinion of market observers, artificial support was being offered to take care of hedging pressure. Deliveries from farms yesterday amounted to 4,500,000 bushels. Foreign sales of Canadian wheat were disappointing.

Outside markets exerted little influence on Winnipeg prices. Chicago held substantial losses most of the day, while Liverpool at the close was ⅛ to ⅜ lower.

There was a better demand for cash grains, but offerings were well held and only a small business was done. Coarse grains followed wheat, though rye was badly neglected and held at lower levels most of the day.

U. S MART LOSES

Associated Press

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Uncertainty over Washington developments had a decidedly unsettling market influence today. At one stage wheat fell to about ten cents under recent top figures.

Wheat closed nervous, 1⅜ to 3 cents under yesterday's finish; corn 1 to 1⅛ down; oats ½ to 1 cent off, and provisions varying from 20 cents decline to 5 cents down.

UNCERTAINTY AT MONTREAL

Canadian Press

Montreal, Nov. 1. — The Montreal Stock Exchange displayed a mixed trend during to-day's unusually light trading and price changes were confined to narrow limits, with the list unusually small. Traders continued to remain on the sidelines in view of the uncertainty surrounding the future, as reflected in the Wall Street markets.

International Nickel led the market in point of activity, and after fluctuating throughout the session, closed up eighty-five cents from last night's final quotation at 19.85. Hollinger rose fifteen cents at 10.65, and Consolidated Smelters five points at 130. Montreal Tramways recorded a gain of six points at 108, and fractional losses were shown by Dominion Bridge, National Breweries and others. Among the banks, Montreal lost six at 150 and Royal 1 at 144.

TORONTO HAS GOOD BUYING

Canadian Press

Toronto, Nov. 1.—While buying was a little better in big gold shares to-day on the Standard Exchange, gains chalked up in the first three hours of trading were not held through a mild sell-off on the Wall Street board at mid-afternoon. The close was not far from the final figures of Tuesday.

Base metal shares also surrendered most of their early gains and silver stocks were stronger. McIntyre drifted back from a top of 47.00 to 44.75, but improved on its low price before the close. Dome finished around 37.75, up 30c; Hollinger was steady at 10.50, Pioneer off 25c at 10.00.

Teck-Hughes was unchanged at 6.10 and Wright-Hargreaves up 5c to 8.20. In the medium priced list Macassa, Reno, Howey, Stacoe and Wayside dropped 1c to 3c each. St. Anthony dropped a cent in active trading.

During the morning rally International Nickel pulled ahead to 19.60, but lost the advance only to shoot up to 19.70 at the close. Noranda gained 25 to 34.75 in low volume, and narrow recession came out for Sherritt, Sudbury Basin and Base Metals Corporation.

Nipissing firmed a few cents to 2.45 and Eldorado moved up 20c, closing at 3.35. Chemical Research was down 7, Home Oil 5 and Ajax 1.

Bitter Fight For Price Bros. Control

Montreal, Nov. 1.—The Montreal Star in its financial columns said today: "With the various groups clearly divided, a bitter struggle for control of Price Brothers and Company, one of the oldest newsprint producers, is now to be fought. Negotiations are no longer cloaked in the more or less peaceful atmosphere of the conference room.

"Hon. Gordon W. Scott, trustee in bankruptcy with his inspectors, has rejected an offer from Bowater's Paper Mills Ltd., of London, England who were successful in their negotiations with the bondholders' protective committee; and the Bowater interests have, in turn, announced they will proceed with their agreement with the bondholders despite the objections of the half of the creditors.

New York, Nov. 1.—Stocks closed with a rally to-day after irregular and generally narrow changes during most of the dull session. Mining shares led the upturn, which accompanied a sharp reaction in dollar exchange.

Transfers for the day approximated only 1,000,000 shares.

Trading was fairy brisk on the late rise. Several of the metal and alcohol issues improved one to five or more points net. Miscellaneous soft spots over the rest of the list reduced or cancelled early afternoon losses.

Although the dollar failed to decline against foreign currencies to the extent indicated by the RFC quotation, it had a fairly steady dip all day. Wheat suffered an extreme loss of around 4 cents a bushel, then made partial recovery.

In metal shares, U. S. Smelting rose half-a-dozen points, Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting and International Silver three to five and numerous others approximately a point.

U. S. Steel, Santa Fe, General Motors, Du Pont and Case, which had moved very narrowly throught the morning and most of the afternoon, finished with gains of around a point. American Telephone halved a two-point loss, and tobaccos cut their extreme declines of the earlier market.

By Victor Eubank, Associated Press Financial Writer

New York, Nov. 1.—Stocks had an inert market with which to begin the new month. Trading lapsed into extreme dullness and fluctuations for the most part were narrow.

Wheat sagged after early firmness but stocks did not seem disposed to follow it. Bonds improved slightly, though they also were too dull to give much indication of a trend. News developments of the day contributed little that might influence sentiment one way or the other and Wall Street was apparently satisfied to hold its sidelines position.

In shares, tobaccos again reacted a bit, leading issues losing around a point. Metals, however, maintained their upward trend, particularly the silver mining classification. International Silver rose four points or so. U.S. Smelting, American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco improved a couple of points and Homestake pushed up more aggressively.

Such industrials as U.S. Steel, Case, Allied Chemical, General Electric and General Motors confined their changes to fractions, tending toward slight improvement.

American Telephone, which has a dividend meeting soon, eased; Wall Street expects no change in the rate of payment. U.S. Steel preferred, whose directors yesterday voted another fifty cent dividend, dipped. Accumulations on the stock now total $5 a share. Standard Oil of Indiana firmed, helped by declaration of the fifty cent semi-annual disbursement. Rails were quiet.

Canadian stocks traded quietly at slightly higher levels. Shares of McIntyre, Dome, Canadian Pacific and International Nickel averaged about half of a point higher. On the curb similar improvement was shown in Lake Shore Mines and Hiram Walker. Dominion Government 4s eased ¼ of a point while the 4½s and 5s ruled unchanged.

LATE RALLY LIFTS LIST

Canadian Press

Toronto, Nov. 1.—Stocks were up and down by narrow steps to-day on the Toronto Stock Exchange and the list finished higher on a late rally. Walkers common backed up to 37½ during an afternoon weak spell in the New York Market but recovered in the end to close at 39½, up a point. Nickel firmed in the last few minutes to $19.70, up sixty cents, and Smelters showed a net gain of two points at $127.

Imperial had the best turnover of the oil group and the close was unchanged at 12¼, while British American gained ¼ to 13 and International Pete finished on top by ⅛ at 18⅝.

Other interlisted shares recovered early losses. Ford "A" finished up ¼ at 11, C.P.R. down ⅛ at 12½, and Brazilian Traction up ¼ at 12½. Canada Malting dropped a half point, Canada Bud was steady at 10, Distillers-Seagram up ½ at 19¼ and Industrial Alcohol up ¼ at 15½.

Standard Steel weakened to 9, down a full point and both Bridge stocks closed lower. Bank shares were quiet

Party Marooned On River Boat

McMurray, Alta., Nov. 1.—Twenty-five persons, marooned in the motor boat Mabel, caught nine days ago in the Athabaska River, 100 miles north of here as winter brought ice, are doomed to spend at least another week on the boat before they can be rescued. They are waiting for removal by airplane but in the meantime no fears are felt for their safety.

It probably will be another week or more before ice conditions will permit a safe take-off and landing on the river for ski-equipped machines.

NEW SHIP FOR THE PACIFIC

Ms. Koyei Maru, Being Finished at Nagasaki, Will Ply in North Pacific Trade

Victoria may shortly be visited by the Ms. Koyei Maru, one of the fastest and most modern freighters plying the north Pacific route between the Orient and America. This new ship was recently launched at the Mitsubishi shipbuilding plant at Nagasaki and is now being fitted for service. Already she has been chartered by the United Ocean Transport Company.

The Koyei Maru will have a loaded cruising speed of seventeen knots. She is the third and the speediest of a trio of smart motorships recently built, the other two being the Koryu Maru, fifteen knots, and the Kosei Maru, sixteen and a half knots.

Like her two sister ships, the Koyei Maru is of 10,000 tons deadweight, with a length of 436 feet, a beam of fifty-eight feet and a depth of thirty-two feet. It is expected she will start her maiden voyage from Japan late next month and may call at Victoria in January, if cargo offers. She will first go to Seattle, where cargo is being assembled for her.

The United Ocean Transport Company will set a record for cargo movements from British Columbia and Puget Sound ports this month, to the Orient, as nine ships, all of them booked full, will load during November. Several of the ships are posted to come to Victoria for lumber parcels. Ships listed are the Kosei Maru, the Talan Maru, the Koyu Maru, the Koryu Maru, the Taigen Maru, the Kohwa Maru, the Talbun Maru and two other ships, as yet unnamed, but for which full cargoes are waiting in British Columbia and Puget Sound. These ships will take lumber, wheat, scrap metal and general.

Will Extend Mail Routes In Arctic

Canadian Government Plans Services to Coppermine, on Shores of Arctic Ocean

Will Also Serve Camsell River; Stamp Collectors Send Many Inquiries

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—The drone of aircraft sweeping through the half-light of the Arctic and carrying the mails to the isolated settlements of the Far North is a feature with which those scattered along the banks of the Mackenzie River have become familiar within the past two years. On the barren shores of the Arctic airplanes are little known; but in a few weeks the remote settlement of Coppermine will be hooked up in the aerial mail system, and one more conquest over that sub-continent will have been achieved.

The Post Office Department contemplates two extensions to its existing service down the Mackenzie River. One will be the carrying of air mail to Camsell River, about thirty-five miles from Cameron Bay, principal settlement on Great Bear Lake, while the other will reach out to the shore of the Arctic Ocean itself, to Coppermine, which is 200 miles north of Cameron Bay.

"First flight cachets," eagerly sought after by philatelists, will be issued to commemorate the opening of the post offices at Camsell River and Coppermine. These are special air mail stamps.

Officials estimated the number of enthusiasts who will take advantage of this opportunity to add to their collections in the neighborhood of 10,000, basing the figure on the number of enquiries already received.

The new postmaster at Camsell River, L. G. Smith, superintendent of the White Eagle Silver Mines, will thus have his work cut out to cancel that number of stamps; and the same task faces J. H. Morris, appointed postmaster at Coppermine.

The Camsell River service will begin around November 29 and that to Coppermine about January 15.

SHIPPING MAN IS PROMOTED

F. B. Tracy, Veteran of Alaska Gold Rush Days, Given Important Position

Seattle, Nov. 1.—T. B. Wilson, vice-president and general manager of the Alaska Steamship Company, to-day announced the appointment of F. B. Tracy, veteran of the Seattle-Alaska routes, as general agent of the company with headquarters at Pier 2 in Seattle.

Mr. Tracy will be in charge of the Alaska Steamship Company's Seattle terminals and the operations of the line's large fleet of ships. He is one of the most widely known men in the Alaska trade. Along the far-flung northland coast, from Ketchikan to Nome and the Arctic, he has friends in every port.

In the gold rush days of 1898 when the territory was beginning to attract the attention of the world, Mr. Tracy began his career with the Alaska Company, then headed by Charles E. Peabody, who was associated with such well-known transportation men as George Lent, Frank Burns, Walter Oakes and Capt. George Roberts. Mr. Tracy's first position with the company was that of ticket agent. He was purser of the steamship Victoria during the hectic days of the Nome gold rush and held the same position on many other ships of the Alaska Steamship Company's fleet.

In 1910 Mr. Tracy was transferred to Cordova in charge of the business of the Alaska Steamship Company in southwestern Alaska. In 1914, during the construction of the Alaska Railroad, he established the company's agency at Anchorage, Cook Inlet. In 1918 Mr. Tracy was transferred back to Cordova, where he previously had been in charge of the company's agency, and in 1922 returned to Seattle as agent at Pier 2. For the past year he has been connected with the traffic department of the company.

The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during three of the usual tidal periods.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

Ship Awaits Planes In Middle Ocean

Ss. Westfalen Will Be Mooring Place For Planes in Europe-South America Run

Seville, Spain, Nov. 1.—Ready to open a regular Europe to South America airplane-mail service, two representatives of the German Lufthansa Company, Von Der Gablenz and Wintersfeld, arrived here yesterday en route to Cadiz.

There they will board a seaplane and fly off across the South Atlantic, headed for the liner Westfalen which awaits them midway between the two continents.

The Westfalen, commanded by Captain Dettmering and supplied with gasoline storage tanks and catapults, was reported in position and ready to begin her career as a refueling station.

The German officials said they expected the new air service, supplanting the Graf Zepplin, which has been flying the route, to be in complete operation within two weeks. Thereafter it is to operate three or four times monthly.

The flying boats are to moor alongside the Westfalen and transfer their mail to the next plane, which will hop off on a continuation of the flight.

On days of rough water, when surface takeoffs are difficult, outgoing planes can be catapulted into the air.

PLAN GREAT RAIL MERGER

Prince Plan For Railway Co-ordination in U.S. Would Make Huge Profit

Washington, Nov. 1.—Vast savings in operating costs, sufficient to give United States railroads nearly $500,000,000 profit in 1932 instead of $250,000,000 deficit, are claimed by sponsors of the Prince Plan for railroad co-ordination, now being studied by Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of transportation.

The co-ordinator is exploring the situation with a view to laying recommendations before the President for legislation to be proposed to Congress. The plan provides for consolidation of facilities in the great terminal centres and elimination of duplicated services.

Seven railroad system were contemplated for the country. Two would be in the east built around the New York Central Lines and the Pennsylvania. The Baltimore and Ohio, Reading, Central Lines of New Jersey and the Norfolk and Western, would be included in system No. 2 which would have 28,900 miles of track. System No. 1 would have 29,148 miles; No. 3, the southeast, 20,810 miles; No. 4, Mississippi Valley, 20,810 miles; No. 5, northwest, 17,807 miles; No. 6, central west, 33,577 miles, and No. 7, southwest, 27,513 miles.

MINERS RESCUED

Attache, B.C., Nov. 1.—Stranded on the uninhabited and rough south bank of the Peace River, below Hudson Hope, without food and with scanty clothing through capsizing of their boats, five placer miners who had spent the summer on the upper Peace River, were rescued here yesterday by the local ferry boat after two days of struggling through the exceptionally and unseasonable deep water. They report a loss of $400 in assorted mining equipment.

Textbooks Teach Youth of Germany Military Science

READINESS FOR SACRIFICE

"Everybody must be taught to understand," says Prof. Banse in this infamous manual for teachers of the children of one lost generation, "that there is nothing extraordinary or criminal about war, and that it is not a sin against humanity. The defence and amelioration of their existence are amongst the highest moral duties and rights of mankind and the states. Only that citizen may claim the protection and benefit of the state who is prepared to stake his life and goods on its maintenance. The method and aims of the new science are to create an unshakable belief in the high ethical value and the deeper meaning of war, and to produce in the individual the psychological readiness for sacrifice in the cause of nation and state."

War is both inevitable and necessary, he begins, and therefore it is imperative that Germans should be as efficient as possible. Therefore, right from childhood the mind of the nation's youth must be educated toward the idea of war.

ADMIT WAR NOT PLEASANT

There is only one thing in this children's guide to war that civilized people will agree with: Prof. Banse admits that war—especially the next war—is not pleasant to contemplate.

"Lamentations about liberation from the Treaty of Versailles," he says, "lead nowhere and only make us ridiculous. If we do not take our fate in our own hands, and concentrate before anything else on our psychological readiness for and knowledge of war. For nobody should be in doubt that only war can change our prevailing need to our coming fortune.

"But war to-day is no more a fresh and frolicsome campaign, with regimental music and victorious colors and a cornucopia of decorations. It is a bloody battle, and in particular a war of materials; it is gas and plague, it is tank and aircraft horror, it is hunger and poverty, it is baseness and falsehood, it is deprivation and sacrifice. Only a nation can endure it whose every member has known for years, and is in his heart of hearts convinced, that his life belongs to the state, and only the state, which is the guardian of nationhood and mother tongue and all culture.

"We will, therefore, not paint war in rose-color, we will not desire it, but we are convinced that it will come, and that the way to freedom can lead only through it. All the more must every man and woman and child know what war means."

If government doesn't make war the aim of all policy, he says, then it is the fate to which government will have to resign itself when its policy has failed.

LEARN FROM NATURE

And he goes on to say that German children, from the age of six years, must have their whole instruction shaped with the idea of war in mind. The children must watch the birds soaring in the sky, and learn principles of military science from them; they must derive all possible military significance from animals, climate, vegetation, even subsoil; when they see a lake, or a tree, or a mountain, they must think of them not as such, but as features which might be utilized in the conduct of war.

I know, thank goodness, that there are German fathers and mothers, and German youths with whom I have talked and walked, who will not be thinking of Prof. Banse's devil's doctrine when they contemplate the beauties of their lovely country. But what of the children who have yet to learn, and who will have this stuff for their primer?

CHILDREN TAUGHT WAR

From the age of six, pursues our professor, children must learn the elements of war as lessons combined with their history and geography and home-work. Military instruction can be made a separate subject after the age of twelve, and this must consist in exercises in small calibre musketry, field work, and war games.

"In this way," he says, "the feeling of youth for the heroic and for robber and soldier games can be bent to the service of the fatherland."

"War is the eternal renewer," the savage creed continues. "It creates as it destroys." War is the hardest, the only inexorably just test of all will and ability, for only in war is the immediate verdict pronounced by victory or defeat.

The Germans are calling Versailles the harshest peace since the destruction of Carthage. But if Prof. Banse is right, surely it, too, must have been "inexorably just."

"MILITARY EUGENICS"

German children must also be taught, our masterpiece continues, that warlike persons must be given more favorable conditions than others in which to live and breed, and it will be the duty of these warrior supermen to practise "military eugenics" and thus graft their soldierly qualities into less warlike sections of the population.

And it must be the business of the church to encourage in every way in its power the teachings of the gospel of war. "The dying warrior dies more easily," says Prof. Banse, "when he knows his blood is flowing for his national God." The church must be patriotic and militaristic, for only thus can it give men the strength they need to risk their lives for their country.

(In his next article, which will appear to-morrow, Mr. Halton will reveal that to be a pacifist in Germany is to invite sure imprisonment, probably death).

U.S. FARMERS MAKING GAINS

Washington, Nov. 1 (Associated Press)—Farmers are paying off their short term debts to government credit agencies faster than new obligations are being incurred by them, Governor Henry Morgenthau of the United States farm credit administration, said 41 per cent of this year's crop production loans of $53,843,000 had been paid in advance of the time due, mostly in recent weeks.

EX-JUDGE SEES NEW IN ACTION

Hon. F. B. Gregory was in court yesterday, but he sat on the hard board seats in the back of the public gallery of the Supreme Court facing at the other side the heavily upholstered and adorned seats of the bench from which he dispensed justice for nearly one-quarter of a century until his retirement this last summer.

The ex-justice came to court to get his first glimpse of his successor, Mr. Justice Harold B. Robertson, in action. The older judge watched the younger conduct a divorce trial. At the end of the trial he went into the judge's chambers and extended his congratulations.

Other visitors to the new judge's court yesterday to see how he conducted a trial were Mrs. Robertson, his wife, and Mrs. G. H. Barnard, wife of the senator.

Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask., Nov. 1.—The ice-covered waters of Echo Lake to-day had given up the body of David Wilson, pioneer resident of this town. Tergeson Brothers Will Continue to Act as Goodrich Tire Distributors

In a sales conference held to-day at Tergeson Bros., it was announced that Tergesson Bros. will continue as exclusive Goodrich tire distributors for Greater Victoria and lower island territory.

H. L. Mullett, district manager, Canadian Goodrich Company Limited of Vancouver, to-day announced the appointment of Marshall-Wells Company, wholesale hardware distributors, as exclusive jobbers of the complete Goodrich tire line from Fort William to the Pacific Coast. The change affects operating details only as far as Tergeson Bros. are concerned.

R. C. Groffman, Goodrich advertising and sales promotion manager from Kitchener, Ont., accompanied Mr. Mullet to Victoria. Mr. Groffmann is out west to hold a series of general sales conventions. The feature of to-day's meeting, aside from the change in distribution, was an outline of increased publicity plans for 1934 on the Goodrich Safety Silvertown tire with life-saver golden play, which resists heat and makes this new tire safer from blowouts at high speed.
